Apollo brings moon closer

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON (AP) — Apollo 7, sailing sweet and true into its second hundred hours in space, has opened the door for firm planning on putting three men around the moon on Christmas Day.

A reliable source said Tuesday the flight of Apollo 7 is going so well that high National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials are meeting this week to firm up a date for a flight around the moon. One source set launch day as Dec. 21, this year.

The source said contractors believe they will be able to establish procedures of training and hardware operation in time to make the flight in December. NASA, he said, is "busting a gut" to meet the December date.

"It will all depend upon whether the astronauts can get in enough training to do it," he said. "Everything else will be ready."

The only thing that might block a circumlunar flight for Apollo 8, the next manned mission, would be problems later in the 11-day flight of Apollo 7.

But Apollo 7 was flying in "good shape," according to flight controller Glynn Lunney, although the astronauts are fighting colds.

The crew, Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr., Walter Cunningham and Air Force Maj. Donn F. Eisele, took America on a televised tour of the world's highest sick room Tuesday. They ignored their colds long enough to perform some zero-gravity acrobatics.

The spacemen, all needing a shave, cavorted in the weightlessness of outer space while the Apollo television camera carried their antics live to a nationwide audience.

"Coming to you live from outer space, the one and only original Apollo orbiting road show starring the great acrobats from outer space Wally Schirra and Walt Cunningham," Schirra announced as the space-to-ground television signal started.

Eisele began the show with a sign used Monday in their first telecast from space: "Hello from the Apollo room, high above everything." Eisele gave the sign a slight push Tuesday and it floated slowly away and out of the picture.

First Cunningham and then Schirra floated into view from the spacecraft's lower equipment bay. They resembled swimmers under water, gliding smoothly and without effort past the camera.

They held up signs asking

"Are you a turtle?" One was addressed to Donald K. Slayton, chief of astronaut flight crew operations, and the other to Paul Haney, chief of the Public Affairs Office at the Manned Spacecraft Center.

Officials said the question involves the password for an informal club in the aerospace community. The proper answer is considered somewhat racy for a national audience. Slayton was not in Mission Control at the time and Haney, watching at his control center console, made no comment.

Schirra, like a pleased and proud host, then gave a televised tour of the complex spacecraft. The camera showed the crewmen working before the consoles and displays which monitor the health of the spacecraft. At one point Eisele placed a pen in midair. The pen stayed there until he reached up to use it again.

Mao puts China's president in 'history's wastebasket'

TOKYO (AP) — Without mentioning him by name, Peking radio declared Tuesday that Liu Shao-chi, president of Red China, has been stripped of all his official functions in the Chinese Communist party and government.

"We have completely disposed of the anti-revolutionary elements led by China's Khrushchev into the wastebasket of history and he no longer has power and authority in the party and government," said a Peking broadcast monitored in Tokyo and translated into Japanese.

"China's Khrushchev" has been the epithet for Liu Shao-chi for almost two years during the struggle which has gone by the name of "great proletarian cultural revolution." It is used to brand him as a "revisionist."

"The declaration of proletarian victory," said the broadcast, "is therefore not just a claim but a fact."

That referred to a declaration some time ago that victory in the struggle against the foes of Mao Tse-tung had been completed with the imposition of "revolutionary committees" over all China's provinces.

The party, Tuesday's statement said, now must "concentrate on reorganizing itself by taking in fresh blood of workers and peasants and consolidate itself by purifying the class ranks."

Liu is chairman of government-in effect, president of Red China, and has also been vice chairman of the party of which Mao is chairman.

There have been claims from Peking from time to time of Liu's downfall, but none thus far which claimed that he actually had been stripped of all office.

Tuesday's broadcast, quoting a 5,500-character Chinese-language editorial in Red Flag, official journal of the party, claimed there has been "complete victory of the proletarian dictatorship over the new revisionists in the party led by China's Khrushchev."

The broadcast said "revolutionary masses" throughout the country had disposed of "China's Khrushchev and his handful of followers," and added: "The great proletarian cultural revolution has surpassed all the previous party organizations in exposing a handful of the anti-revolutionary elements who crawled into the party."

"Now," it said, "our party has become more purified, more strengthened and more united with Chairman Mao and Deputy Chairman Lin Biao as its center and leaders."

Wilson gives final package to battle colds that developed after they were launched into space last Friday for the 11-day mission. Cunningham said he had no cold, but felt "on the verge of getting one."

The astronauts tested for some four hours Tuesday the environmental control system designed to keep the crew from frying in the accumulated heat of their spacecraft.

Word on the colds came from a crew medical report.

"I still have a cold," said Schirra. "None of us are coughing." He said the crew was rested, despite a shortened sleep period, but planned to "take advantage of the longer hours tonight (for sleep)."

"My only complaint is a head cold," said Eisele. "I find my ears plugged up now and then. Other than that I'm in good shape. No problems."

"I'm in good shape," Cunningham reported.

No official figures have been made public on the number of soldiers to leave and the number to stay. It has been reported in Czechoslovakia that the Soviet Union wants to keep from 50,000 to 100,000 troops there.

The present occupation force has been estimated at from 250,000 to 600,000.

In the Oct. 3-4 talks here the Czechoslovak leaders agreed to a number of measures aimed to at least the partial restoration of Soviet-style rule in their country.

These included strengthening the position of the Communist party, stepping up the struggle against "anti-Socialist forces," tightening press censorship and reinforcing the governmental apparatus with "firm adherents of Marxism-Leninism and proletarian internationalism."

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson disclosed Tuesday his final package of safeguards for Africans in Rhodesia and said the white Rhodesian government would have to swallow it "as a whole" or not at all.

Reporting to the House of Commons on his Gibraltar talks with Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith, Wilson outlined the terms of his take-it-or-leave-it offer to Smith, who declared Rhodesia independent in 1965.

Czechs OK treaty; Russian troops stay

Official signing deferred

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Oldrich Cernik of Czechoslovakia agreed with Kremlin leaders Tuesday on a treaty dealing with the basing of Soviet troops in his country, Czechoslovak sources said. It was eight weeks to the day after the Warsaw Pact invasion.

Official confirmation of an agreement was lacking.

The Russians sought such a treaty to give final legality to the presence of their soldiers in Czechoslovakia, a Communist ally of 14 million people that had leaned since January toward reforms.

The Czechoslovak informants had no details about the treaty. Though the wording is formulated, signing will be deferred, they said.

They reported Cernik, who returned to Moscow Monday for his fourth visit since the Soviet Union and four orthodox allies dispatched military forces to curb Czechoslovakia's liberalization program, would be heading back soon to Prague.

A communiqué, relayed abroad by the Czechoslovak news agency CTK, said the two sides exchanged views on certain questions resulting from previous Moscow agreements, "especially as regards the conditions of a temporary stationing of Soviet troops on Czechoslovak territory—as envisaged by the communists on Soviet. Czechoslovak talks held in Moscow Oct. 3-4, 1968."

The Soviet news agency Tass, paraphrasing the same communiqué, said the topics included "the question of the terms for the temporary stay" of the troops. It reported: "The negotiations proceeded in a spirit of comradeship and businesslike cooperation."

Soviet participants included Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, Defense Minister Marshal Andrei A. Grechko and Vasily Kuznetsov, a deputy foreign minister who has been a frequent visitor lately in Prague.

Cernik was accompanied by his deputy, Pavel Colotka, Justice Minister Vladimir Kucera and a number of top military officials.

Cernik and other Czechoslovak leaders agreed in principle here Oct. 3-4 to enter into a treaty that would permit some Soviet troops to remain in their country. The Kremlin pledged to remove "the other troops by stages."

No official figures have been made public on the number of soldiers to leave and the number to stay. It has been reported in Czechoslovakia that the Soviet Union wants to keep from 50,000 to 100,000 troops there.

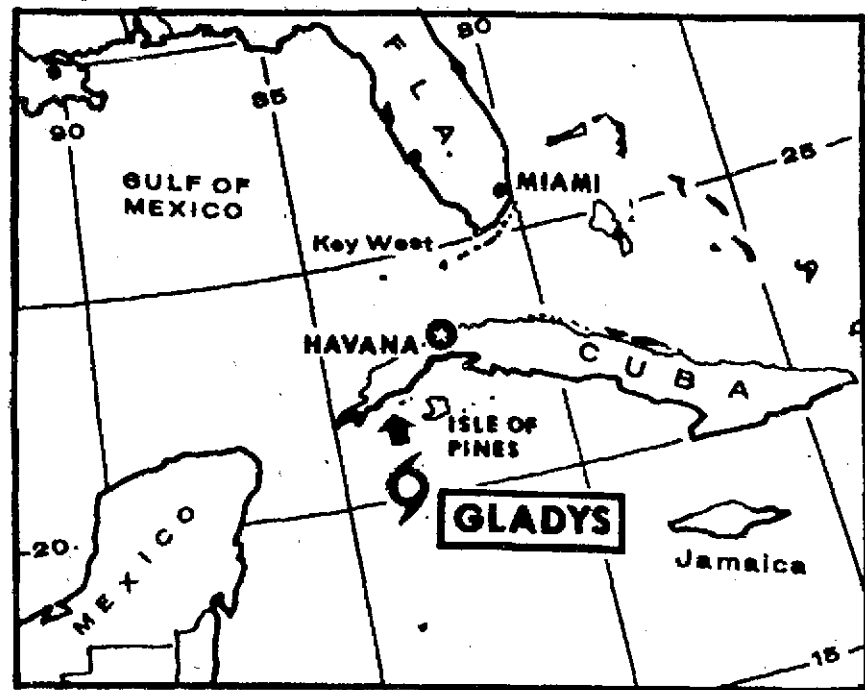

The present occupation force has been estimated at from 250,000 to 600,000.

Tocks opponents carry on appeal

Record Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Six hundred small property owners in the Delaware Water Gap Area are appealing to the U. S. Supreme Court to block the Tocks Island Reservoir and adjacent Recreation Area.

The Delaware Valley Conservation Association is suing the secretary of the Army, the secretary of the Interior and the head of the Army Corps of Engineers, which is in charge of the project in an effort to stop the project.

The association has already lost two cases in the federal district court in Scranton and the circuit court of appeals in Philadelphia.

The association is asking the Supreme Court to review the case presented in the lower courts during their October term which began two weeks ago.

The Supreme Court has not yet ruled on their petition. Because the association is virtually bankrupt from the two previous cases, it is presenting its case without counsel. Should the Supreme Court agree to review the case, it would appoint one of the members of the association to argue the case.

However, it does not seem likely that the court will review the case. In both earlier decisions, the courts ruled that an individual or association cannot sue the U.S. without its permission.

Leading the fight is Mrs. Nancy Shukaitis of East Stroudsburg. As association secretary and a Monroe County Commissioner, it was she who filed the petition with the court.

Humphrey clarifies stand on Vietnam

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Hubert H. Humphrey, in an elaboration on his Vietnam stand, said Tuesday he would stop the bombing of North Vietnam "period" and he called Richard M. Nixon "chicken hearted" for declining to debate him on Vietnam and other issues.

Humphrey faced, in Kansas City, Mo., college students, Negro students, and jabbed at George C. Wallace and Curtis LeMay as the "bambsey twins." He declared "Richard the Lion-Hearted is really the chicken hearted" as his audience laughed.

At a question and answer session in the packed gymnasium at Rockhurst College the vice president dealt with his views on the bombing.

Humphrey said it was necessary for the U.S. to take risks for peace, adding, "We take risks on the battlefield every day." And he cited as an example U.S. bombing near Haiphong when Soviet ships were in the harbor.

Humphrey promised that as president he would take risks but "I'm not going to be a foolish president."

For instance, Humphrey said any action would have to take into account below the demilitarized zone.

"The only reason to stop the bombing is to encourage the process of peace," and the response of Hanoi would have to be taken into account, Humphrey said.

The vice president said in his Salt Lake City speech on Vietnam "I said I would stop the bombing as an acceptable risk for peace, period."

Gladys threatens Apollo

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Tropical Storm Gladys built up a 60-mile an hour punch in the Caribbean Sea Tuesday and the National Hurricane Center forecast a gradual turn that would aim the big blow in the direction of Miami.

Concern that the storm might interfere with the scheduled Oct. 21 splashdown of the Apollo 7 spaceship arose as Dr. Robert Simpson, director of the hurricane center, said Gladys may become "a fairly large" hurricane by Wednesday.

But in Houston, officials at Mission Control said the storm was not a problem.

GCW speaks to engineers, administrators

LOS ANGELES (AP) — George C. Wallace got a polite reception from aerospace workers Tuesday, but ran into opposition when he addressed space scientists, engineers and administrators.

"When I become your president," he told 500 to 700 applauding workers at an Aerojet General Corp. plant, "I'm going to ask my attorney general for indictments against any California professor who calls for a Communist victory in Vietnam."

He drew more applause when he questioned the competence of the report from the President's Commission on Civil Disorders, headed by former Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner.

State banking head seeks halt to increasing interest

HARRISBURG (AP) — The state Secretary of Banking said Tuesday his office will push for a "badly needed" overhaul of the state's 110-year-old usury law to "stem the flow of lendable funds seeking higher (interest) rates" in other states.

Secretary G. Allen Patterson said his department was preparing a "meaningful Pennsylvania Usury Bill" and would seek Gov. Shafer's backing to offer it during the 1969 session of the General Assembly.

The present usury act, passed in 1858, provides for a legal interest rate of 6 per cent per year but has been made ineffective to state Supreme and Superior Court decisions, said Patterson.

The current situation, said Patterson, is that "some legal authorities" believe the court rulings "give most lenders in Pennsylvania clear authority to charge any rate of interest which a borrower will agree to pay."

A number of exemptions passed since the original law was enacted, would be continued under the Department of Banking's proposal, Patterson said.

Among them would be loans to corporations, mortgages issued by FHA or VA guarantees or insurance, loans in excess of $50,000 and small loan company loans.

Patterson said, "I am in favor of a meaningful 'Pennsylvania Usury Bill' which will provide that the legal rate of interest be 6 per cent per annum and that the lawful rate of interest shall be 8 per cent provided there is an express contract in writing between the lender and the borrower."

The 1858 act sets the interest rates at 6 per cent but stipulations for recovery of rates in excess of the maximum are virtually unenforceable by modern standards, Patterson pointed out. His proposed act, he said, would include a penalty provision entitling the borrower to

Tate agrees to increase police pay

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Mayor James H. J. Tate agreed to give Philadelphia policemen pay raises totaling $1,870 spread over three years.

It will boost the basic policeman's pay to $9,300 a year after three years.

Mayor Tate's office estimated the increase for the approximately 8,000 policemen will cost the city about $26 million.

John J. Harrington, Fraternal Order of Police president, said he will recommend approval by his members.

The agreement calls for a pay increase of $900 a year starting Jan. 1, $670 more on Jan. 1, 1970 and $300 more a year on Jan. 1, 1971.

In addition to the general raises, detectives and corporals, who are in a higher salary bracket, will get $256 more a year.

recover the interest paid plus a sum equal to the interest paid. "Within the past several months, all of the states bordering Pennsylvania as well as many other states throughout the country have enacted more realistic usury statutes which permit lenders to charge a higher interest rate than lenders in Pennsylvania may charge," the secretary said.

This is causing lenders within the state to seek loans in other states "thus resulting in an outflow of funds needed in the Commonwealth," he said. A higher legal interest rate would help stem this trend, he said, while his proposal would also add a much-needed penalty clause for usury.

Patterson, in a speech Monday, asked the Pennsylvania Savings and Loan League to support his proposal. Earlier at the league's annual convention here this week, the league's president, Thomas Matthews of Philadelphia, gave his personal endorsement to a usury law re-vamping.

"An increase in interest rates would accelerate the lending activities of savings and loan associations."

Your Horoscope By Francis Drake

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Needed now: Patience in labor and domestic issues, perseverance in tedious, humdrum tasks. Emphasize your dynamic personality.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Don't oppose others too quickly, nor before you hear all facts. You could be misconstrued. Generally helpful influences.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Your morale should be high now. Try to firm up weak areas and assist others to do the same. Don't miss out on those "little" opportunities.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — As you proceed, cautiously but not fearfully, you will find the going easier, restrictions growing fainter. But daily or turn to nonessentials, and the way will thicken with obstruction.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Pick no quarrels—which does not mean you should not defend principles. Just don't haggle or be eager for battle. Rule out overspending, rash decisions.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — You may find it a complex, contrary "problem" day in part. Intrusions, interference likely. Handle all with diplomacy.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Mixed planetary influences. You may experience some seemingly ungovernable moments, areas: Handle with astuteness and deliberation. Fine advantages also indicated.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Take credits where offered, and take suggestions and instructions from due authority—all with the dignity that earns respect. There are a few obstacles, tricky spots to overcome.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — You can gain a lot of ground now with good humor, diligence and through talking things over calmly with persons concerned in your projects... not other parties. Avoid extremes.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Fine Saturn influences make this day a good one for your intuitive forces, your ingenuity, perceptiveness and inventiveness. Use them for sound purposes. This is really YOUR type of day.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Uranus auspicious. A period for gathering fresh thoughts to initiate fresh, improved action and future plans. Discuss ideas with experienced heads, co-workers.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Enterprise, resourcefulness and initiative should spark this day and give you and your interests a new lease on progress. Give credits where they are due.

YOU BORN TODAY are roundly capable, likeable and practical; a direct and straight-shooting person. Justice, order and harmony are your standbys, and, with you, these principles are not merely theoretical. You carry them out in your work and all other activities. You are always eager to find the best road and follow it assiduously and enthusiastically. You combine practicality with artistry and could succeed in almost any field of your choosing; could especially excel in the law, in medicine, music, the graphic arts or in any field which involves dealing with the public. ## Strike closes New York City system

Teachers, students threaten schools

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Disruption ranging from a teachers' strike to campus bombings unsettled the educational process in various parts of the United States Tuesday.

The third teacher walkout of the new academic term paralyzed the New York City school system with its 1.1 million pupils.

The unionized teachers struck Monday in a protest against the administration of community-directed schools in a predominantly Negro and Puerto Rican area of the city.

Student pickets protesting the dismissal of a Negro school official paraded at New York University, scene of two small bomb explosions Monday. Scores of students passed through the picket lines into their classrooms.

An explosion Monday night shattered windows and a door of the University of Michigan's Institute of Science and Technology at Ann Arbor.

A radar laboratory in the building recently was relocated there from the university's Willow Run facility near Ypsilanti which has conducted research under Defense Department contracts.

Police declined to discuss possible motivation for the blast. An earlier one smashed the front door of an Ann Arbor office building rented by the Department of Defense.

In Chicago nearly 25,000 high school pupils took part in a Negro-led boycott of classes Monday but were back in school Tuesday. Organizers of the boycott said it would be repeated each Monday in support of pupil demands which include Afro-

American history courses with Negro teachers and school holidays honoring Negro figures such as Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., and Malcolm X.

A dozen members of the Black Students Union seized a classroom building at the University of California campus in Santa Barbara in a protest against what they said was racism on the campus.

The group withdrew from the building after a number of demands were granted by school officials, notably a graduate program in Afro-American studies.

Classes were resumed quietly at Philadelphia schools after a group of Negro pupils and teachers staged an all-night sleep-in at Benjamin Franklin High School. The demonstration followed a series of incidents in which Negro pupils claimed they were attacked in white neighborhoods while walking to Benjamin Franklin and other schools.

New Jersey's big guns pound North Vietnamese island

SAIGON (AP) — The battleship New Jersey unleashed a 30-minute barrage on a North Vietnamese coastal island from which U.S. planes have been subjected to frequent anti-aircraft fire, the U.S. Command said Tuesday.

The 16-inch guns of the world's only active battleship pounded three-mile square Hon Mat Island Monday with shells capable of penetrating 30 feet of reinforced concrete.

Aerial spotters said later that at least one anti-aircraft battery was destroyed and a large chunk of the island itself fell into the gulf of Tonkin.

Hon Mat is 22 miles northeast of Vinh and 14 miles south of the 19th Parallel, the northern boundary for U.S. planes and warships operating against North Vietnam.

It was the northernmost sortie to date for the 55,000-ton New Jersey, which arrived in the war zone two weeks ago. The ship has been cruising the coast, firing at selected targets, mostly supply routes and areas of concentrated military activity.

While the battleship was hitting Hon Mat, about 130 Air Force B52s attacked enemy base camps and troop concentrations near four key provincial capitals in South Vietnam which are considered prime targets for new enemy attacks.

The cities were Quang Ngai, in the coastal lowlands, Pleiku, capital in the central highlands, Tay Ninh City near the Cambodian border northwest of Saigon, and Can Tho, the capital of the Mekong Delta region in the south.

Fighting has flared on and off around all four cities since mid-August, when a new enemy attack against Tay Ninh shattered a two-month lull.

South Vietnamese military headquarters announced that B52 strikes killed 36 North Vietnamese troops west of Quang Ngai Monday, shortly after the enemy sent 17 rounds of big rockets slamming into the city and a nearby government infantry regiment. Four civilians and four soldiers were killed.

The air campaign against the movement of war supplies from North Vietnam into South Vietnam continued with American fighter-bombers flying 118 missions over the North Monday.

Pilots reported at least 21 supply boats, 12 trucks and seven railroad cars destroyed or damaged.

U.S. headquarters announced the loss of a Navy A6 Intruder Sunday 24 miles southeast of Vinh and said the two crewmen are missing. It was the 907th American warplane officially listed as lost in combat over North Vietnam.

28th District has senator

HARRISBURG (AP) — State Sen. Robert Beers was sworn in Tuesday, giving the 28th senatorial district in York County a man in the senate for the first time in two years.

The district had been unrepresented since November, 1966, when Democrat Henry Leader, the apparent winner by a slight margin of election-day ballots, challenged the procedure for counting absentee ballots.

Beers was declared the winner by 14 votes, 35,968 to 35,954 for Leader.

Athletes schedule dance

NEWFOUNDLAND — The annual Halloween Masquerade and Dance sponsored for the community by the Greene-Dreher-Sterling Athletic Association has been scheduled for November 1, beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the school gymnasium.

Prizes will be awarded for costumes in various categories, and there will be a cake walk and round and square dancing. Music will be provided by the president of the association, Herb Peet, and his band.

Mrs. Joan Hutchins, of Greentown, is chairman of the party and dance, to which everyone in the Greene, Dreher and Sterling area is invited. More than 200 persons attended last year's festivities.

During the October meeting at the school, it was reported that the Little League-Teen League Picnic was well-attended, although few parents were present for the event which was planned for a parent-son outing.

Women's Volleyball was set for Thursday nights at 7:30 p.m., instead of Wednesday nights, since the town basketball team will be using the gym on that night. The women will play volleyball every Thursday throughout the fall and winter months, and all girls and women are welcome to join in.

Recreation programs for the men and boys have not been planned as yet by the Association, but will be scheduled soon.

$31,900 sale figure for nine lots

STROUDSBURG — Block Land, Inc., has sold nine lots in Pocono and Jackson Townships for $31,900 according to a deed filed in the Monroe County register and recorder's office.

The land was purchased by Miller E. Cartwright, Joseph J. and Norma G. Huber, Leon W. Poltenavage, Lucian A. and Lucy B. Olewski, and Frank S. and Pauline W. Wittman.

Also, John T. and Mary D. McMahon; James R. and Frances R. Brimette; Vincent and Emily Traub; and Robert J. and Lore Fischer.

Other deeds recorded Tuesday:

TUNKIANNOCK TOWNSHIP — Fred Frankel Associates, Inc., to Thomas D. and Elizabeth M. Adams, Almira W. Van Court, Charles and Mary Kern and Miss Ann Lettieri.

a number of taxes during the last session of the Legislature, to Peter J. O'Brien, democratic candidate for state representative in the 199th district, charged Tuesday.

O'Brien pointed to the increase from five to six per cent in the state sales tax, giving Pennsylvania the highest levy in the nation, and the reduction of meals' exemption from 50 cents to 10 cents.

The Mount Pocono attorney said both bills passed the House with a bare majority of 102 votes, the exact number needed for passage. "Had it not been for my opponent's votes, the measures would not have passed," he said.

O'Brien is opposing Russell Eschback at Bushkill, the Republican incumbent.

O'Brien also cited increases in the cigarette tax from eight to 13 cents a pack, in the liquor tax from 15 per cent to 18 per cent and in the inheritance tax from two to six per cent.

"These increases are having a profound effect on every Pennsylvanian's pocketbook. Despite promises of holding the tax line, the present administration has callously disregarded the people and has given out state the highest tax levels in our history. The Pennsylvania consumer now pays a higher percentage of the total state budget than ever before," he said.

Bangor boy flees from youth center

EASTON — A 14-year-old Bangor boy Sunday night escaped from Northampton County Juvenile Center by diving through a back door of the building.

It is the second time this month the youth has made his flight to freedom.

He escaped from the Youth Development Center at Cornwells Heights on Wednesday, Oct. 2.

The Sunday night escape occurred at 6:30 p.m. when he left the reading room of the Northampton County center, and walked into the kitchen. At this point he dove through the door, going through a heavy screen and knocking out a window pane in the door.

The youth was first committed in June on a parole violation charge. At that time, it was reported, that the boy had been drinking and had become abusive when he was stopped by police.

He was first taken into custody in February on burglary charges.

FFA honors area farmer

MOUNT BETHEL — Paul F. Smith will receive a special award from the Future Farmers of America during its annual convention today in Kansas City, Mo.

FFA decided to honor Smith as an outstanding farmer after judges reviewed a written resume of Smith's achievements.

Smith was accompanied to Kansas City by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Smith.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 0 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. (A-16)

Delaware River conference at Pocono Manor next week

POCONO MANOR — The annual Delaware River Basin Water Resources Conference will begin Monday at Pocono Manor and will run through Tuesday.

The highlight of the conference, co-sponsored by the Delaware River Basin Commission (DRBC) and the Water Resources Assn. of the Delaware River Basin (WRA-DRB), will be a commission meeting Tuesday at 2 p.m.

The commission, under its three-state compact, manages the water resources of the Delaware River basin.

The conference is open to the public.

The theme of this year's two-day session is "Regionalism in Water Resources Management."

James F. Wright, executive director of the DRBC, will welcome the conferees Monday morning after which four panel discussions will be held.

Arthur F. Loeben, director of the Montgomery County Planning Commission, will discuss "Pitfalls and Promises of Regional Planning." Dr. Hugo F. Mailey, executive director of the Wyoming Valley Sanitary Authority, will talk on "Operating Experiences in a Regional Program."

Also, Dr. Loren V. Forman, vice president of Scott Paper Co., will talk on "An Industrial Evaluation," while John T. Carson, director of the Division of Natural Resources of the Bucks County Planning Commission, will also be on the program. The annual dinner will be held Monday at 7 p.m.

Milford man in accident

MILFORD — Ernest Megargel, 47, of Hawley R.D. 1 was injured slightly Tuesday at 10:30 a.m. as he traveled on a rural road in Laxawaxen Township, Pike County.

Megargel received a cut over his left eye but did not require hospitalization.

State Police at Milford said Megargel was traveling west and was rounding a right curve when his car ran off the highway, went down an eight-foot embankment and came to a stop 50 feet from the highway.

Megargel told police that he fell asleep while driving.

Bangor school board cracks down on tuition-free students

BANGOR — Guardians or custodians of children attending Bangor Area schools tuition-free will be required to sign an affidavit saying that they are responsible for the children for an entire year and not just for the nine-month school year.

The action was taken during a school board meeting Monday night in the junior-senior high school.

Under the new policy, parents of the children must sign a statement relinquishing the right of control over the children and transferring the rights to the person with whom the children are living.

The custodians of children must also give a bond or confession of judgment note to secure compliance with the affidavit.

The board's solicitor will have the authority to decide if all the conditions have been met.

The board reported that construction work on the new junior high school stopped last week because of a difference in steel and brick work.

The board authorized the change of the type of brick being used in the new school from Glen-Gery brick to Hazleton brick.

Dr. William S. Ricker, district superintendent, reported that several adult education courses have been dropped because of lack of interest and because of the inability to obtain qualified teachers for the courses.

Classes which will not be held are bridge beginning, ceramics, cooking, creative writing, English review, French, interior decorating, landscaping and care of grounds and Spanish.

On Ricker's recommendation, the board approved the hiring of 22 teachers for the adult program.

The board also authorized the Bangor chapter of the Future Farmers of America to erect three signs with the FFA emblem on the Five Points-Centerville road and on each side of the East Bangor-Mount Bethel road at Five Points.

The board authorized the school band to march in the Halloween Parade in Bangor on Oct. 31. The request was made by the Bangor Area Chamber of Commerce. The board also agreed to issue identity cards to the district's teachers. The teachers can receive from 10 to 15 per cent on books used in graduate work.

The youth council of the Bee Hive received tentative approval to hold a hogie sale in the junior high school cafeteria Saturday.

The board accepted the resignation of Mrs. Mary K. Overfield as cafeteria manager. Mrs. Overfield will remain as head cook, however.

The resignation of Mrs. Verna Edwards as head cook in the Washington School was accepted.

The board also authorized the use of the Washington cafeteria for voting on Nov. 5.

Bangor board member at convention

BANGOR — Clair Piefly, a member of the Bangor Area School Board, is in Pittsburgh to attend the annual convention of the Pennsylvania School Board's Assn.

Piefly was recently named to the association's cabinet and represents seven counties, including Monroe. He is also a member of the legislative council.

Piefly is chairman of the Bangor board's legislative committee.

Pen Argyl ministerium plans Thanksgiving church service

PEN ARGYL — A 9 a.m. Thanksgiving service will be sponsored by the Pen Argyl Ministerium in the Bethany United Methodist Church.

During a meeting Monday, the ministerium agreed to hold the Nov. 28 service and selected the Rev. Lewis Paulhamus as guest speaker.

The ministerium also passed a resolution favoring the creation of centrally-located State Bell library. The ministers urged a civic organization to undertake the project, which would serve various needs of the area's youths and adults.

It was announced that representatives of the Vacation Bible School committee will meet Oct. 23 at 8:45 p.m. in the social room of the Bethany church. The ministerium appointed a committee to replace church signs at the east and west entrances to Pen Argyl.

The next meeting will be held in St. Roch's Catholic rectory, West Bangor, on Nov. 11.

Introducing the 1969 Volkswagens.

They're harder to take than ever.

Once upon a time, you couldn't give away a Volkswagen. But with all the improvements we've made over the years, things have changed. Now people actually steal them. To help stop this, we're putting a new ignition/steering wheel lock in every 1969 VW. When you shut off the ignition and remove the key, it locks the front wheels in position. So if someone ever breaks in and jumps the wires, he'll probably wind up just going in circles. He may even end up going straight. Of course, this isn't our only improvement for '69. There are 28 others. Including an optional fully-automatic transmission for the fastback and Squareback. (The bug and Ghia have our optional automatic stick shift. Which we introduced earlier this year.) Whichever VW suits you best, the best way to see all its changes is with a test drive. Because, as usual, most of our improvements aren't on the outside where you can look at them. They're deep down inside. Where they make new VWs run better. And where they don't make old VWs look obsolete.

Elect O'Brien to 139th District

Monroe County is the largest county in the state of Pennsylvania without a resident representative in the state legislature.

We feel this is a deplorable condition and strongly recommend that it be rectified on Tuesday, Nov. 5, with the election of Peter J. O'Brien as a member of the General Assembly from the 139th District.

O'Brien is young, vibrant and intelligent. He has a background of law and a quality of seeing problems before they unfold.

The Mount Pocono attorney, a Democrat, is blessed with a driving force and a keen understanding of the difficulties currently confronting those people of the 139th district, which includes Monroe, Pike and Wayne counties.

We also feel that O'Brien is the man who can at least attempt to answer the many problems appearing almost daily in his legislative area, due to the rapid growth and change of the locality.

O'Brien is 30 years old, as compared to Republican J. Russell Eshback's 69 years. Eshback, a resident of Bushkill, has served in the state legislature since 1959.

It is our opinion that Eshback's five successive terms in the state legislature is enough. We also feel that his age is one that should bring about retirement from political life. We call for a fresh look in government. It is our opinion that O'Brien's stay in Harrisburg will be more productive than that of Eshback in recent years.

Since many of today's problems are caused by and troublesome to our youth, we feel that a younger man's views will bring about a quicker and more complete answer to the difficulties.

It is our opinion that O'Brien has a feeling for the pulse beating in Monroe, Pike and Wayne counties and a strong desire to serve with wisdom and dignity if elected.

O'Brien's desire to establish priorities in state government spending, rather than the catch-as-catch-can method as now apparently used in Harrisburg, has also impressed us in recent weeks.

Much of the Tocks Island Dam and Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area will be located in Monroe and Pike counties and again strong state representation from this area will be necessary.

We feel that O'Brien's legal practice has opened new doors of government to him. During the pursuit of his law career, O'Brien has worked in the field of education, which is another plus in his behalf as far as we are concerned.

It is our strong desire to see O'Brien as our next representative in the 139th District of the Pennsylvania State Legislature.

Educational gains

Pennsylvania's keen interest in higher education became apparent recently when it was noted that the Keystone State leads all others in the gain in tax funds devoted to higher education during the past eight years.

In fact, the gain is twice the national average.

Pennsylvania's gain during the eight-year period was 509 per cent, as compared to the national average of 233 per cent. Those responsible for this increase are to be warmly congratulated for a job well done and for a high degree of constructive foresightedness.

In terms of dollars, Pennsylvania's increase was up from $43,472,000 in 1960-1961 to $264,693,000 for 1968-1969.

During the 1960-1961 period Pennsylvania was 10th in the nation in state tax dollars devoted to higher education. During the most recent period, the Keystone State has moved into fourth place, behind only California, New York and Illinois.

In total tax dollars, California leads the United States with appropriations of $637,788,000 during the 1968-1969 period, while New York is next in line at $482,986,000.

On a percentage increase basis during the same period of time, California is up 188 per cent and New York 413 per cent.

Higher education is of tremendous interest on all levels of life at the present time. It is most pleasing to see Pennsylvania making tremendous strides as a state to help its college students of the present time and those who plan on gaining a higher education in the future.

Those who have guided the program are urged to make even greater strides in the future. Our state legislature is also urged to aid the program of education at every turn. We all may be thankful someday.

The Scott Report

Doubling security

WASHINGTON — The Secret Service is doubling its security protection of the three major presidential candidates for the closing days of the campaign.

The added protection is believed needed because radicals and anti-war groups are planning large-scale disruptive demonstrations during the candidates' final campaign appearances in most of the major United States cities.

Increased threats against the candidates — especially George Wallace and Vice President Humphrey — have also heightened concern for their safety.

Most disturbing to the Federal Security agents is the anti-war demonstration scheduled for Chicago on Nov. 1 when Humphrey makes his final campaign appearance in that pivotal state.

Although the anti-war groups haven't finished their planning, federal investigators say the protestors' basic strategy calls for disrupting the Democrats' proposed torchlight parade down Michigan Avenue.

Large crowds expected

In previous election years, the Democrats' torchlight parade and rally in Chicago Stadium have attracted some of the largest crowds of the entire presidential campaigns. The parade and rally in 1960 were key factors in the late President Kennedy's close victory margin over Richard Nixon in Illinois.

Two groups which are leading the planning for the demonstration in Chicago are the Student Mobilization Committee, (SMC) an anti-war group which claims to have representatives on more than 1,000 campuses across the country, and the Chicago Peace Council which lists the Communist Party of Illinois as one of its affiliates.

The council is also the Chicago affiliate of the National Mobilization Committee (NMC) whose leaders helped plan the disruptive tactics during the Democratic National Convention.

Providing hecklers

Significantly, the NMC and the SMC have been providing most of the hecklers who have tried to disrupt the rallies of the presidential candidates throughout the country.

In addition to the Chicago demonstration, the NMC and SMC also will stage demonstrations and try to disrupt the big New York rally next week of independent candidate George Wallace.

Other anti-war demonstrations, designed to disrupt the campaign, will be held in other major cities including Philadelphia and Cleveland during the closing two weeks of the campaign. These protests will be linked to world-wide demonstrations against the war in Vietnam in London, West Berlin, Paris and Saigon.

Daniel Cohn-Bendit, the red headed fire-brand who put the Sorbonne (France) into headlines last spring, already has moved into West Berlin to prepare for violent demonstrations there.

West German officials warn that "Danny the Red" is in the beleaguered city to aid Rudi Dutschke, last year's symbol of student protest in Berlin who is recovering from an assassin's bullet.

Jim Bishop

Face at stake

The reassessment promised by Nixon, Humphrey and Wallace regarding the Vietnam war is, in reality, a small feature of a large portrait. It involves all of Asia and adjacent islands. The United States, as the protector of the free world, failed in Korea, where it won an uneasy stalemate, and may lose the wormlike land of Vietnam, which it tried to cut in half.

Reassessment is, at best, a diplomatic word. It assumes that a mistake has been made in the original assessment. Of the 71 billions the United States annually spends on defense, more than 30 billions go to Saigon. No other signatory to the SEATO pact is going broke in this interminable foray. Each one puts up a small token force, and each sustains small losses.

An Air Force colonel stood on the apron at Tan Son Nhut airport with me and he skidded a few pebbles under his feet and put it bluntly: "We can win. If someone in Washington took the brakes off our air and ground forces we could mop this thing up pretty fast." No one took the brakes off.

The reason for fighting behind a demilitarized zone — if you recall the original pronouncement — was that we were there to protect the right of South Vietnam to an electoral determination in favor of democracy. In sum, we would fight the North Vietnamese who tried to invade the South, and we would clear the South of Vietcong.

Grave risk

The limitation of military goals was a diplomatic evasion. Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson sought the counsel of their Joint Chiefs of Staff and were told that, if U.S. forces moved north to take Hanoi and Haiphong out of the war, there would be a grave risk that Red China would send her endless hordes south to defeat the United States.

There would be nothing official about it. The Chinese would be volunteers, as they were called in Korea, where they met our victorious forces south of the Yalu River and ran us back to the 38th Parallel. We can not afford one more of those surprises.

Once committed, the U.S. imposed its restricted goals in Vietnam so that China — the real enemy — would not be goaded into taking military action. Merely to hang on to what we had, the American forces have been escalated above a half million men, in addition to the aforementioned $30 billion a year. An expensive standoff.

Since the action began, one president has been assassinated, and another retired from office. Candidates for exalted office in this country rise and fall on their professed attitudes toward Vietnam. No one, even the faker, has a solution, because peace is not in the interest of the world of socialism.

Bleeding the U.S. is, in the world of Marxism, an ideal state. I would be most surprised if the Asians in Paris are there to discuss a ceasefire. The Americans dare not cross the demilitarized zone to punish North Vietnam, and they dare not abdicate their role of world leadership. Between those extremes, there is no palliative.

This is why I believe that when the newly elected President assumes office on January 20, he is going to have to "reassess" the role of this country as the world guarantor of national borders. When the last hot gun has been fired in Vietnam, why shouldn't the Communists start a similar action to "liberate" Thailand? Or India? Turkey?

The "reassessment," in the face of general disgust in this country, may go far beyond Vietnam. It may have to embrace all of Asia and the Middle East. Ironically, there are only two options: continue to bleed and spend to maintain leadership of the Free World, or blunt the eagle's beak and chain him to his tree.

The postwar histories of almost all modern wars prove that the adversaries misjudged each other's intentions.

Don MacLean

Six in running

WASHINGTON — At the moment six men have at least a theoretical chance of being the next president of the United States. Thanks, of course, to our quaint election system.

Of course, to our quaint election system. There's probably wondering how this is so, since there are only three major candidates. Perhaps you are forgetting their hand-picked vice-presidential candidates who, if this thing should go into the House and then the Senate, could gain the job by default.

President Muskie? President Agnew? President LeMay? Hmmm, it is something to think about, isn't it? In fact, one could hardly employ a more dramatic argument for overhauling our present system of installing people in the highest office in the land.

Here's what could happen: Should Wallace get more votes than anyone expects (and his support, according to the polls, is growing fast) and should the race between

Allen - Goldsmith Report

HHH wins round

WASHINGTON — Richard M. Nixon, clearly the front-runner as the long presidential race winds into its final lap, is occasionally missing a stride as he glances nervously over his shoulder at his pursuers.

George Wallace, surprising some experts, is still up front with the leaders. He is running easily, confident that he has forced the pace thus far.

Vice President Hubert Humphrey is just running as hard as he can. It may not be the right time for sprinting, but there just doesn't seem to be any other strategy available.

These are the conclusions which arise from a second appraisal of the three presidential campaigns. As we did a month ago, we surveyed them before the same audience, at appearances within a period of a little more than 24 hours.

In September, with the campaign just beginning, we reviewed a candidates' parade at the American Legion convention in New Orleans. This time we watched them, with the campaign beyond its halfway point, before the ninth annual conference of United Press International editors.

Same old line

Another recurring impression, in rapid-fire exposure to the candidates, is one of familiarity — of having heard that line before. Nixon wants a "series" of summit meetings with the Russians, and here is Humphrey proposing them on an "annual" basis. Nixon rejects nuclear "parity," insisting on strategic "superiority," but didn't Wallace use precisely those same words to make the same point?

Something new had been added to the Wallace campaign since last we viewed it. Present on the UPI rostrum was Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, the burly, cigar-chewing ex-Air Force chief of staff who is now Wallace's running mate. It developed, however, that LeMay's presence was ornamental, not functional.

Though he was invited to do so by his UPI hosts, Wallace did not refer any military questions to LeMay. In fact, he chided those editors who had once extolled LeMay's achievements, but now belittled the general's candidacy for vice president.

Here are capsules, chronologically:

WALLACE — As suggested above, the former Alabama governor had a chip on his shoulder at the UPI meeting and at a subsequent luncheon appearance before the National Press Club. He intimated that some of the press people were "know-it-alls" who had, by their attitudes, unwittingly helped to create his third-party movement.

He began his UPI speech with the wry comment that he was not used to speaking before orderly audiences. Then, from notes, he spoke for half an hour stressing his determination to vest control of local schools and local government in locally elected officials, not in "pointy-head" federal bureaucrats.

In a half-hour question period Wallace was asked a number of questions about foreign policy. He said his whole campaign and attitude were "pitched on peace — peace through strength." On the central issue of the Vietnam war, he said he supports the Paris talks ("let's pray and hope they're successful"), but would move for a military victory with conventional arms if the talks fail.

He was politely received by the UPI editors, who laughed, if not uproariously, at his sallies, even when they were directed at the press. He was applauded courteously when he left the

The Pennsylvania Story

Electoral College

HARRISBURG — It is perhaps a curious fact of historical life but that much aligned and highly criticized institution known as the "Electoral College" — which every four years does indeed elect the president of the United States — at one time became the sole vehicle for providing Pennsylvania a voice in the election of a president!

This all dates back to an incident in the presidential election of 1800 (mentioned briefly in this column Tuesday) in which in that fourth presidential election in the country's history, the Keystone State was so fouled up that the electors of the state that year did not have an opportunity of expressing by popular vote their choice for president — the only time it happened — and the Electoral College became the only vehicle for Pennsylvania to get in on the presidency.

A note first about the little known Electoral College:

rostrum, but he was probably right in assuming from the outset that it was not his audience.

A Pennsylvania editor remarked that Wallace said he, like all ex-cab drivers, knew a bad guy "just by looking at him."

"I knew Wallace was effective, but I knew," the editor said.

NIXON — Remarking that he was anxious to become a regular subscriber to Washington papers once again, Nixon made no speech and submitted, at once to questions. He was not happy with the first one, which was based on an earlier comment by a UPI panelist, that Nixon (and, as it developed, the other candidates) were not discussing the issues in any detail.

"Try me," he said, and the editors did for about an hour.

Nixon faced his questioners from the end of a runway which reached into his audience. There was no rostrum, only a cluster of microphones on a pole. The idea was to get Nixon close to the audience, and the editors liked it. Nixon seemed to find it awkward, however, and after some extravagant gesturing he rested his hands on a microphone bracket.

As expected, editors' questions brought out most of the positions which Nixon has been taking in his speeches. He maintained his self-imposed ban on outlining peace proposals for Vietnam, but he added a little bit.

He said he was withholding such comments, not only to avoid impediments for the Paris talks, but also to preserve complete flexibility and plenty of "running room" for a Nixon administration. He said he would not escalate the present level of bombing now.

He was warmly applauded at the end of his question and answer period, but some of the editors thought the UPI panelist had been proved correct.

"My paper is supporting Nixon," commented one West Coast editor, "but he said nothing here."

HUMPHREY — Welcomed with standing applause, the vice president was clearly ahead on quips when he disagreed with what he said was the Wallace view that the press was "full of lies." Humphrey said drily: "This, frequently, is not the case."

Then, however, the vice president talked from a foreign policy text for 50 minutes. There was no lack of detailed discussion here. On the contrary, there were five detailed essentials for world peace and a six-point proposal for the Middle East as elaboration for one of the five.

Humphrey restated his willingness to accept the "risk" of a complete bombing halt in Vietnam. He again stressed, however, that such an action would have to be matched by some evidence of Communist good faith. He said Russia should see that North Vietnam provides it.

The vice president's long speech left him a somewhat shorter question period, but he answered a variety of questions. He received scattered spontaneous applause when he told a southern editor that he would insist on continuation of school desegregation guidelines while trying to assure that they were administered fairly.

There was standing applause again when Humphrey left the hotel ballroom, and several editors thought that, despite the length of his prepared speech, Humphrey had received the best reception from the UPI group.

"He got one vote — my wife's," said an editor, shepherding his wife toward the lobby, where Humphrey had lingered for some personal politicking.

Favor of strength
In essence, the electoral votes of the Keystone State invariably are cast in favor of the party or candidate carrying the state.

The Electoral College meets in January when the two houses of Congress go into session for the counting of the electoral votes. The Candidates for President and Vice-President receiving the greatest number of electoral votes are declared the winner, provided such number is at least a majority (in 1969, the majority will be 270 out of 538).

Now back to the presidential election of 1800. The legislature of 1790-1800 failed to provide for the choosing of presidential-electors in 1800, which left the (perhaps) 20,000 Pennsylvania voters without presidential candidates over which to mull and flex their ballot quill pens.

As a result, Gov. Thomas McKean called the legislative greats of the day into special session on Nov. 5 (1800) at the court house in the (then) borough of Lancaster, for the purpose of providing for the selection of presidential electors in behalf of the Keystone State.

The Legislature got into a hassle (as usual!) between the two houses as to the method of electing the electors, but finally managed to pass an act providing for the naming of eight candidates for presidential electors by each house and the selection of 15 therefrom at a joint session.

Joint election

The joint session was duly held. Eight were nominated by the House of Representatives and seven by the Senate (making the 15 to which Pennsylvania was then entitled) and were duly elected to represent Pennsylvania in the Electoral College.

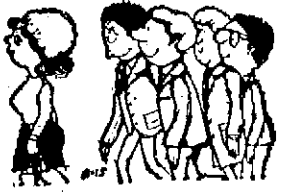

At the meeting of the Electoral College, eight of the electors voted for Thomas Jefferson and Aaron Burr (the Republican candidates) and seven for John Adams and C. C. Pinckney (the Federalist candidates).

Perils of pulchritude

A group of women were rehearsing the story of the computer operator from Brooklyn who attracted a crowd of 5,000 spectators the other week just by walking down the street.

"I don't understand what all the fuss was about," said Janet. "She measures 43-25-37," said Martha.

"I've got those measurements," said Janet. "Breathing deeply."

"But not in that order, honey," retorted Martha.

"I think it's a crying shame," said Janet, "when a girl isn't allowed to walk the streets in a tight yellow sweater and a red skirt without being stared at by a bunch of men."

"Yeah," sighed Valerie, "I know how she feels." (This caused a lull in the conversation while we looked at Valerie. She met her husband in the men's room of the Capital Theatre after she was directed there by a far-sighted usher.)

"The way I figure it," said

Harriet, "Is we are all built differently and we all have different assets. You take me...I'm kind to my mother."

"If you want to know the truth," said Martha, "being stacked rather well would have definite disadvantages."

"Name one," said Harriet. "You couldn't swim under water."

"Name two," persisted Harriet. "I'm thinking."

"We had a girl in our eighth-grade gym class who was different. We never knew why. We just knew her gym suit never wrinkled like ours."

"If you dropped a dime on the floor of a phone booth, you couldn't pick it up," said Martha to Harriet.

"What did the girl say when she saw all those people?" asked Valerie.

"She said, 'I don't know what all the fuss is about. I'm just an ordinary girl.'"

"Poor kid," said Janet. "If you ask me I think all this messing around with the atomic bomb has overdeveloped the female species."

"You couldn't have a 'one of the boys' relationship," said Martha to Harriet.

"Imagine!" mused Harriet. "Five thousand people to ogle one poor girl."

"It just proves an old proverb," said Valerie, "with men, love is not a sentiment, but an idea."

"That's beautiful," said Janet. "Where did you read that?"

"In the men's room of the Capital Theatre," she sighed wistfully.

ESSC women's association hosts recreation conference

EAST STROUDSBURG — The Pennsylvania Division Athletic and Recreation of College Women's Conference, sponsored by the Women's Recreation Assn. of East Stroudsburg State College, held a three-day conference to discuss Recreation problems and new programs, on and off campus.

The conference which started Wednesday was held at Sunnybrook Baptist Camp with the delegates from all colleges of similar organizations visiting ESSC campus.

Discussion groups included the topics: co-recreational programs, publicity and communications; intramurals, Sports Day and extramurals, starting new activities, use of community sources, unifying the intercollegiate program and what type of recreation program today's student want.

Dr. Janet Felshin, coordinator of ESSC's Graduate Studies and a member of Physical Education Department was guest lecturer, discussing "Sport and Culture" at the main banquet.

Dr. Lora Evans, acting head of Physical Education Department delivered the address.

A general discussion session closed the program on Saturday.

Legion commanders endorse Vietnam bonus

EAST STROUDSBURG — James D. Shafer, commander of the George N. Kemp Post 346, American Legion, East Stroudsburg, in conjunction with John E. Gilbert, state commander of the American Legion, Tuesday called on the state's voters to give servicemen from called on the state's voters to give servicemen from Pennsylvania a vote of confidence with an overwhelming approval of a Vietnam Bonus at the Nov. 5 election.

"This is not a partisan issue. It is a patriotic issue," Gilbert and Shafer said.

The question in the November ballot will be on creation of a $28 million debt to pay a state bonus to veterans who served in Vietnam conflict. It will mark the first time a recent amendment to the State Constitution has been implemented, putting such a question directly to the people without the necessity of approval by two separate sessions of the legislature.

Gilbert said the state Legion organization is calling upon its more than a quarter of a million members in more than 900 posts throughout Pennsylvania to get behind the bond issue.

"The American Legion traditionally disassociates itself from partisan politics and I want to stress the fact that the Vietnam Bonus is a bipartisan issue in that it has the support of the Republicans and Democrats alike," Gilbert concluded.

Cottage owners seek road care

EAST STROUDSBURG — Smithfield Township supervisors were asked by two residents to take over roads for maintenance and resurfacing, during their most recent meeting at the home of secretary, Mrs. Harriet Mosier, East Stroudsburg, R.D. 1.

A request was made by Robert Maccavanto, to accept what was identified as Sunset Drive for resurfacing and snow plowing. Supervisors reviewed a road map of the area and questioned who owns the "right of way" on the "proposed" road and requirements for bringing the road up to specifications before the township would take action.

A second request for township road maintenance was made from Michael Whalin of Philadelphia, speaking for 27 summer residents who own cabins on property sold by Dale H. Learn, East Stroudsburg, R.D. 2.

Whalin argued that he and the other summer residents were taxpayers of the township but receive no service in return. He presented deeds of his lot and of several other residents which apparently claim that the road in question was a township road.

According to the supervisors, the section of road is a private road of the developer and is beyond where the actual township road ends. After more deliberation, supervisors found that the road would not be up to township specifications as it exists now, and either the residents or the developer will have to correct the road prior to their acceptance. No action was taken.

Solicitor Samuel Newman briefly reported on the status of the Delaware Water Gap and Smithfield Township annexation question. Newman said there has been some shifting of the township and borough lines by the county assessor's office.

Newman said he will get a complete list of property owners of the area from the assessor's office, with current maps and will confer with Harry F. Lee, Delaware Water Gap Borough solicitor to determine what action, if any will be taken.

Supervisors and Newman continued to review the proposed subdivision regulations drawn up by Raymond and May Associates, consulting engineers in Washington, D.C. which were completed and submitted in July to three townships in the Tocks Island Impact Area, including Smithfield, Middle Smithfield and Price.

Newman pointed out that these proposed subdivision regulations include the requirement for developers to have roads brought up to township specifications before property can be subdivided and sold and would avoid the current problem faced by the township with requests to take over improper roads.

Ann Landers

No help here

Dear Ann Landers: When my husband was courting me, 18 years ago, I fell in love with his brother. It was too late to call off the wedding so I married Arnold knowing he was not the one for me. We have children, 16, 14 and 10.

My brother-in-law and I have been seeing each other secretly all these years. Nobody has the faintest idea we are in love. He, of course, has never married. Now we want a life together and this is why I'm writing.

Please don't tell me to forget him. We've tried separation but it doesn't work. I'm not asking what to do, just how to dissolve my marriage in the simplest, least hurtful way. I want to make it clear that Arnold has been a good husband — honorable, decent faithful and hard-working, but I don't love him and I want to be free to marry the man I do love. How? How? How?

ANONYMOUS

Dear Ann: If you want to divorce a man who has been faithful, decent, honorable and hardworking after 18 years and three children, you'll have to do it without my help.

Dear Ann Landers: For three years I stalled when my husband asked me if his elderly father could make his home with us. I gave in a year ago when I saw how depressed he was because of the poor relationship between him and his daughter with whom he was living.

Papa is over 80 now and I am a nervous wreck. I know he tries to be cooperative and not get in my way. This only adds to my guilt. Many small things about him annoy me, but his eating habits drive me crazy. His slurping, chomping and gulping can be heard three rooms away. He dunks everything in coffee even though he still has his own teeth.

I am embarrassed in front of company and I play the radio during mealtime to drown out the noise. I find myself avoiding soup, spaghetti and celery when I plan menus. It's getting ridiculous.

Is there a solution, Ann — or am I doomed forever?

DAUGHTER-IN-LAW

Dear D.L.L.: It's a noble thing you're doing and it's unfortunate that your kindness is bringing you anxiety and frustration instead of satisfaction and joy.

On the outside chance that your irritation with the old gentleman is rooted in hostility toward your husband, have a chat with a therapist. You can't lose and you might learn something.

Dear Ann Landers: You gave the right answer to the woman who wanted to know if she should change the name of her son by a former marriage so it would be the same as hers and her second husband's. In that particular case the father was a well-known criminal.

My real dad was no criminal but when he died his parents made Mom promise she wouldn't change my last name. All through school I was asked a million questions. The confusion was awful. My half-brothers and sisters hated it as much as I did.

Just keep on handing out common-sense advice and tell those who disagree with you to go climb a tree.

AN ADMIRER

Dear Ad: Some of my best friends disagree with me. But you were sweet to write and I thank you.

New Scout troop sets paper pick-up

DELAWARE WATER GAP — Boy Scout Troop 92 is about to be reestablished in Delaware Water Gap with a paper pick-up drive Saturday as the first activity.

The eight boys who are expected to form the nucleus of the revived troop will tour the community Saturday beginning at 9 a.m. in a borough truck.

People who have good-sized bundles or who live outside the borough are urged to call John Wilson at 476-0141. The Scouts hope that people who have paper to donate will bundle it as well as possible and place it at the front door.

Wilson, who will be scoutmaster for the troop, says that a charter is about a month away. The troop number—92—is the same one used by the once-active Water Gap troop that was disbanded about a half dozen years ago.

Mason Holland has agreed to be institutional representative and, assistant scoutmaster. Sponsors are the Methodist and Presbyterian churches of Delaware Water Gap.

Truck backs into parked car

STROUDSBURG — Stroudsburg Borough Police Monday at 1:25 p.m. investigated a car-truck accident in the rear of the Teddy Bear Market. They reported no injuries and said damage was slight.

A truck making a delivery to the store backed into a parked car owned by Mrs. Helen Shaffer of East Stroudsburg, R. D. 3. The driver of the truck was Paul Spellman of Allentown.

Children's art for fair

STROUDSBURG — The children of the B.F. Morey School joined forces to make posters for the Morey Book Fair to be held Saturday, Oct. 19, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the school.

Winners in the poster contest were Jeff Leonard, Elizabeth

Treible and Andrew Johns, third grade; Lori Stockel, Barbara Balmors and Leonard Hippler, fourth grade; David Castor, Mark Fetherman and Kurt Evans, fifth grade; Paula Shelley, Debra Pyatt and Glen Frailley, sixth grade.

Honorable mentions went to Brenda Possinger, Lisa

Donatelli, Debra Kelper, Karen Morrissey, Tony Posten, James Bond, Harold Felker and Spencer Cramer.

Judges for the show were local artists Arthur Widmer and Sterling Strauser, and Mrs. Janet Swift, art teacher from Blairstown, N.J.

Girl Scout Olympiad set for Stroudsburg Saturday

STROUDSBURG — This community will have its own Olympics this coming Saturday when the Girl Scouts of the Stroudsburg Neighborhood have their second outdoor Olympic Game Program beginning at 1 p.m. at Stroudsburg High School.

The Olympic game, planned by the adult scouts of the neighborhood, will feature a series of events for the Brownie Junior and Cadette levels of Scouting.

The spirit of the games will follow that of the original Olympics, the first records of which were taken in Greece in 776 B.C. Warring states and fighting tribes laid down their arms and all of the people went forth in peace to pay tribute to the athletes of their native with early rewards a simple crown of wild olive.

Revived in 1892, the World Olympics now in progress in Mexico is the world's greatest athletic spectacle.

Locally, instead of the Olympic flag with its five interlacing rings symbolizing the five continents, the Girl Scout World Assn. flag will be flown with the trefoil signifies the sun shining over all Girl Scouts and Guides, the wavy base for the flame of love of mankind and the center vein is a compass needle pointing the right way, and two stars for the promise and laws.

Instead of the Olympic motto, "Citius, Altius, Fortius", swifter, higher and stronger, the Girl Scout Motto "Be Prepared", and instead of the Olympic oath, they will have the Girl Scout Promise.

As in the Olympics, the stress will be "not to win but to take part; not to have conquered but to have fought well".

As the troops assemble on Saturday they will rally around their troop flags. The arrival of the torch bearer with the flame at 1 p.m. will be followed by the flag ceremony.

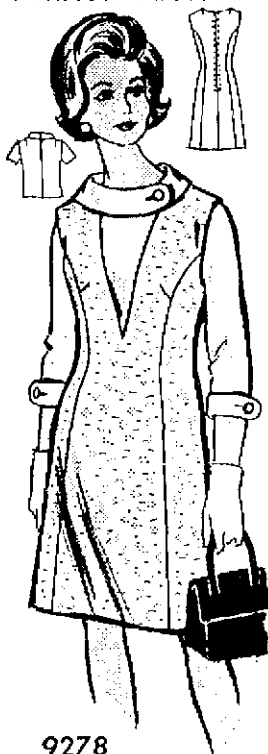

When the Scouts, Brownies, Cadettes and Juniors finish their round of skill games, each according to their own level, they will return to their pennant where score cards will be collected.

While the score cards are being tallied, the Scouts will have refreshments.

Announcement of awards is scheduled for 3:10 p.m. to be followed by the friendship circle.

Area recipe in JC Wives cook book

STROUDSBURG — The Pocono Mountains Jaycees at their first meeting this fall announced that they will be selling their new "Salads, Including Appetizers" edition of "Favorite Recipes of Jaycee Wives." This cookbook is the third in a series of cookbooks; the others available are Meals edition including seafood and poultry and Desserts edition including party beverages.

In each of the books over 2000 outstanding recipes were contributed by members of Jaycees wives throughout the country. Locally Mrs. John Bitzer of Snyder'sville is represented in the canape section of the Salads edition with her recipe for "Satine Pizza."

Proceeds from the sale of these books will be used to work with the local Jaycees in sponsoring the Christmas party for underprivileged children and for the annual Jaycee Easter Egg Hunt.

Woman's Club year opens at luncheon

POCONO MANOR — The Woman's Club of the Stroudsburgs started off their new club year to a different beat in a fast-paced cabaret-type entertainment by a local company at their opening luncheon at Pocono Manor Inn.

Also new was the announcement of a number of study groups to be organized if enough members are interested including a music group to study operas, an art group using Metropolitan Museum material, a sewing group with travel, book reviews and international affairs also among the suggestions.

Mrs. Henry Surrey presided at the meeting with 82 members and guests attending.

Mrs. Peter K. Simmons read a memorial to the late Mrs. Ernest H. Wyckoff who just last year had been named an honorary life member of the club.

Mrs. Surrey also announced the gift of an antique candle snuffer of the same George III period as the Stroud Community House where it will be used for club meetings. It was the gift of Mrs. Albert Dowden.

Mrs. Frederick Titus announced the annual Taste and Tell luncheon and card party to be held Wednesday, Nov. 13, at the club rooms. Members will provide the food and 20 copies of the recipe for their specialty. Tickets are available from Mrs. Titus and Mrs. David Katz. Vigilante whistles were offered for sale.

Mrs. Clifford Heller announced that individuals wishing to join the club-sponsored Bridge-a-Rama could call her for help in arranging groups.

Mrs. Elmer Christine explained the use to which the collection of funds for the Well-Baby Clinic was used: for juice for visits, Christmas mittens and other clinic material. The sum of $49.25 was collected.

"Make Yourself at Home" was the title of the entertainment, introduced by Mrs. E. C. Julstedt, in an original musical revue by Bill Marley featuring Tony Belfiore, Astrid Keuler, Joan Kaye Howell and Rob Howell with Bob Spence as pianist.

Using portable stage, the skits, blackouts, songs and sketches took off on topical subjects many of them involving the resort area including its honeymoon resorts. Wednesday smorgasbord, bar-room pick-ups, and spectators at the outdoor art shows.

The pace was fast, the music tuneful, and the voices excellent. Planned for a supper club atmosphere, some of the material in the cold light of day took a sober and somewhat serious-minded audience by surprise. But even this audience warmed to the audience participation song.

Past presidents introduced at the luncheon included Mrs. Edmund Strickland, Mrs. C. C. Scholla, Mrs. Edward Hess, Mrs. William Webb and Mrs. Frederick Titus.

Also guests were presidents of other federated clubs, Mrs. Robert Hoffman, president of the state federation; Mrs. James Staples, president of the Stroudsburg Junior Woman's Club; Mrs. Ernest LaBar, president of the Barrett Community Club.

Mrs. Harvey Pullen was chairman of the luncheon with Mrs. Edwin J. Hermanns and Mrs. John Granger in charge of reservations. Mrs. C. C. Scholla, Mrs. T. I. Metzgar, Mrs. Clifford Heller and Mrs. Edwin Hughes in charge of decorations.

With travel in mind, the committee arranging the trip to Freedom Foundation, Valley Forge for Oct. 20, go over the route. ## Freedom Tour for BPW week

STROUDSBURG — The launching of National Business and Professional Woman's Week on Sunday, Oct. 20, will be observed by the local club in a trip to Freedom Foundation at Valley Forge.

The trip is open to the public.

Freedom Foundation is sponsored by organizations throughout the state, including the local Business and Professional Woman's Clubs. The sole purpose of the foundation is to encourage all Americans to understand and defend the rights, freedom and responsibilities enjoyed under the democratic form of government.

Anyone wishing to join the local club members in the bus trip may get further details and make arrangements through Mrs. Richard Everitt, 508½ Scott St., Stroudsburg; Mrs. Ethel Peckman, Gwendolyn St., East Stroudsburg; or Mrs. Theodore Viechnicki, 16 Lions St., East Stroudsburg.

Just Between Us—

By Bobby Westbrook

Sunday was a beautiful day to be cruising on the Hudson as a group of local people did; but it was also a gorgeous day sitting on the banks of the Delaware with the glory of the autumn foliage doubling itself in the water.

Especially when the scenery is enhanced by grandchildren making enough mummies to stock a bakery. However all baking stopped when somebody spotted a V marking the slow progress of some animal swimming the river.

An otter? A muskrat? Turned out to be a squirrel, who pulled himself out and lay panting on the bank, only his tail retaining its freshness, too exhausted to try to escape the ring of curious faces peering down at him. Finally mustered enough breath to climb a tree, while the children watched in awe. Said one small voice, "I hope he didn't leave all his nuts on the other side."

The scenery was beautiful on Monday, too, except the members of the Woman's Club who had looked forward to going to the Manor to see the countryside in all its glory were curtailed in by thick grey fog which gradually thinned enough so that it was like looking at the landscape through a gauze curtain.

One of the members who enjoyed the "honeymoon resort" skit of "Make Yourself at Home" most thoroughly was Ann Strickland, who could recognize many of the quotes from the brochures, as well as the honeymooners.

The weekend also had its disappointments. It would be just as well if you didn't mention spaghetti in Barrett Twp. where it is a very painful subject. The Barrett Community Club, prepared to serve 2,500 people, had only 300. That's a lot of left-overs.

Local party Autumn cruise on Hudson

EAST STROUDSBURG — A group of local people spent Sunday cruising on the Hudson River to view the autumn foliage of the New York Mountains.

They drove to Kingston, N.Y., where the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Dee Rake, keep their boat. They spent four hours cruising with lunch and refreshments on the boat.

Making up the party were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ahnert, Mr. and Mrs. James Kitchen, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Walter, and Mr. and Mrs. James Seese of Miami, Fla. Fred Rhodes, who with his wife had planned to join the party, was admitted to the General Hospital on Friday.

Scranton-Pocono Council

Girl Scouts original Chest members

(Third in three-part series.)

STROUDSBURG — A member of the Community Chest since its founding in 1942, the Scranton-Pocono Girl Scouts number more than 7,600 girls and 1,600 adults within a six-county area, including 1,255 girls in Monroe County, according to staff member Mrs. Evan Klotach.

There are 62 troops in District

Five with 234 adults now doing volunteer work with the girls, Mrs. Klotach said.

Now in its 57th year, the Girl Scouts of America bases its program on six foundation elements: active citizenship, troop management, health and safety, international friendship, service, and the Girl Scout promise and laws.

All program activities in the arts, the home, and the outdoors are centered around these foundation elements, according to Miss Jeanne Gordon, executive director of the Council.

"The real purpose of our program," Miss Gordon said, "is to help girls develop as happy, resourceful individuals ready to accept their positions as responsible citizens."

Membership is open to girls between the ages of seven and 17, divided into four age groups.

Beginners, seven and eight years old or second and third grades in school, are the well-known "Brownies." Fourth, fifth and sixth graders, ages nine to 11, are Juniors. Cadettes are ages 12 to 14 in grades seven to nine and seniors include girls from 15 to 17 and grades 10 to 12.

There are eight professional staff members and four clerical employees who provide service to the 325 troops in the counties of Lackawanna, Pike, Susquehanna, Wayne and Monroe, Miss Gordon said.

In Monroe County, Mrs. Klotach works with volunteers to recruit and train leaders, organizes neighborhood troops, conducts workshops and counselor courses, and coordinates program activities with Miss Anna Johns, district program training director.

Serving on the board of directors from Monroe County are Miss Dorothy Butz, Mrs. James T. Harmon, Jr., Mrs. George Learn, Jr., Mrs. Arthur Slee, and Mrs. Kurt Wimer.

Mrs. Stephen Matos is Stroudsburg Neighborhood Chairman. Mrs. Joseph Bensley serves as Chairman in East Stroudsburg, and Mrs. Sue Ellen Lee is Mountain Neighborhood Chairman.

Neighborhood chairmen work directly with leaders and girls within their area, which consists of several communities. Stroudsburg includes Brodheads-ville, Delaware Water Gap, Ansonia, Sciota, and Effort. East Stroudsburg encompasses Minisink Hills, Bushkill and Marshalls Creek, while the Mountain Neighborhood includes Mt. Pocono, Tobyhanna, Pocono Pines, Mountainhome, Swiftwater, Tannersville, and Canadensis.

"We are proud to be a member of the Community Chest," Miss Gordon said, "and only through the efforts of our generous citizens and our volunteer workers will our programs with the future women of America go forward. Your dollars are not spent in vain but are an investment in the moral, spiritual, physical and mental aspects of our citizens of the future."

involved in the change of the run.

In other action, the board: Hired two teachers: Katherine Chatten for fourth grade at Pocono Elementary Center for salary at $7,700 and Theodore G. Raymond as part-time custodian.

Appointed Ronald Sparrow as Head Teacher at Barrett Elementary Center with a supplementary salary of $150.

Accepted the resignation of Joanne Pitzer after five years, effective Nov. 30.

Approved three supplementary increments for credits to Carl Majer, Myron T. Zawoiski and Mary L. Montgomery.

Approved six activity appointments: Michael Ragsdale for school play at $125, and Debating at $125; Edward Dietrich for newspaper at $150; Sally Sparrow for yearbook at $150; Ivan Koberlein for assistant basketball at $300 and Russell Speicher for senior high band at $400.

Dr. Nye also announced that some 300 adults are attending adult evening classes in 23 subjects.

Dr. Nye said there is an apparent shortage of substitute teachers and explained that even though there are people on the substitute list, they cannot always be secured when needed in a specific subject area.

Substitute teachers are paid $30 per day. For specialized fields substitute teachers are provided with alternate lesson plans which do not require extensive background to teach, Dr. Nye said.

Gap bridge crossings increase

MORRISVILLE — Traffic on Delaware Water Gap Toll Bridge during the month of September showed an increase of 4.5 per cent while revenue increased 2.91 per cent as compared to the same month last year, Edward Driebe, chairman of Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission, said.

During the month, 319,348 vehicles used the toll bridge to provide a daily average of 10,645 passages. Income for the month totaled $87,266.80, which in turn provided a daily average of $2,908.89.

For the same month last year, 305,587 vehicles used the bridge and paid $84,797.55.

For the first nine months traffic is up 7.12 per cent and revenue is up 5.94 per cent.

In an overall look of the bridges, income for September totaled $388,238.47, a revenue increase of 6.94 per cent when compared with the same period last year.

Traffic during the first nine months of 1968 also increased 6.75 per cent over last September.

The 11 free bridges, Driebe said, handled 2,663,599 vehicles last month as compared to 2,666,088 in September 1967. Such figures reveal a decrease in usage of .04 per cent and a net decrease of 22,489 vehicles. The daily average usage of the 11 free bridges during the month of September was 88,786 vehicles as compared to 89,536 vehicles one year ago.

Covered-dish supper at 'Y'

MOUNTAINHOME — The Barrett Republican Club will hold a covered-dish supper, followed by a meeting at the Barrett YMCA on Saturday at 6:30 p.m.

Guest speaker at the meeting will be J. Russell Eschback, State Representative, followed by a demonstration of the miniature voting machine.

Cohen opens headquarters in Bethlehem

BETHLEHEM — The Cohen for Congress Committee Saturday opened its second headquarters at 304 East Third St., Bethlehem. Peter G. Cohen, of Stroudsburg, challenging both Fred B. Rooney and Republican Paul Henderson for the 15th congressional district on an independent ticket spoke to the group assembled for the opening.

"The opening of this office in the heart of Bethlehem is the beginning of a new phase in my campaign," Cohen said. "The policies of the Johnson administration, which have intensified the problems of our nation at home and abroad, have been consistently supported by the incumbent congressman."

"To all who want a change, I say, study the issues, study the candidates, and face the facts that it will do no good to change our national leadership unless we change our congress as well."

Cohen went on to cite problems of inflation and taxes of the working man in relation to the administration priorities on military spending.

On the Columbus Day opening, Cohen said, "We must have fresh, dedicated leadership at all levels that can face the problems and find the answers."

Hello, KitchenAid. Goodbye, hand dishwashing.

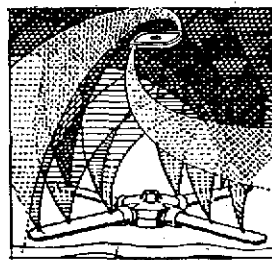

Tired of washing dishes? Let a KitchenAid dishwasher do it for you. Just push a button and dishwashing's done. Automatically. Just see what this Superba model, the finest built-in dishwasher made by KitchenAid, has to offer:

7 PUSH BUTTON CYCLES. A perfect cycle for every dishwashing need. You can select SanCycle, that preheats final rinse water to 180° for extra family health protection. Also Plate Warm, Heavy Soil, Full Cycle, Light Soil, Rinse/Hold, Cancel & Drain.

WONDERFUL LOADING FLEXIBILITY. You'll appreciate how easy it is to load and unload a KitchenAid Superba. Upper rack is easily adjusted to 9 positions; Flex-O-Dividers can be raised or lowered, individually, to 16 positions. So you can load odd-shaped or extra-big items like toasters.

POWERFUL WASH/RINSE SYSTEM. Eliminates hand-rinsing. And dishes come out sparkling clean. New Constant Rinse continuously rinses dishes through all wash and rinse cycles.

FLO-THRU DRYING SYSTEM. Exclusive with KitchenAid. Thorough yet safe even for fine china, good plasticware. No hot spots.

TRIDURAO PORCELAIN ENAMEL. Another KitchenAid exclusive, this 3-coat, premium porcelain enamel protects the wash chamber for lasting beauty.

HANDSOME, NEW STYLING. And beautiful finishes. In golden harvest, avocado, edged colonnade, copper tone, and white. Vari-Fronts also are available in stainless steel, brushed chrome or birch. And the stainless steel trim kit lets you use any cabinet wood or fabric.

Are Kitchen Carpets Practical?

They sure are—if they're from the Nice 'n' Easy collection

They're practical because they:

- clean easily... (crumbs whisk away with a broom or vacuum and spills blot or wipe up with a damp cloth)
- cushion your every step... (cutting down on fatigue)
- bring kitchen noise down to a whisper... (saves on china breakage too!)
- virtually wear forever... (never fuzz or pill)

Practical and beautiful Nice 'n' Easy Carpet comes in six different patterns to go with any decorating scheme and a variety of colors coordinated with today's popular appliances. Nice 'n' Easy Carpet is sure to please the most practical person. Walk softly on Nice 'n' Easy in the kitchen, den, hall or anywhere your family "makes tracks." And the price is practical too, only $169.00* for the average size kitchen... (19 x 12 foot)

Opening lead — jack of diamonds.

Even the best players occasionally suffer from blind spots, as evidenced by this hand from a match between Austria and Great Britain.

The British West overcalled South's heart bid with a spade, which North doubled. Well aware that his opening bid was under par in high cards, South ran to two clubs, which North corrected to two hearts.

The bidding would probably have died right there had East passed, but he understandably compelled with two spades. North-South then proceeded to four hearts, which East doubled.

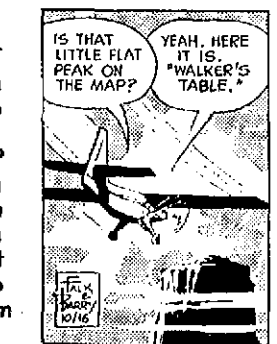

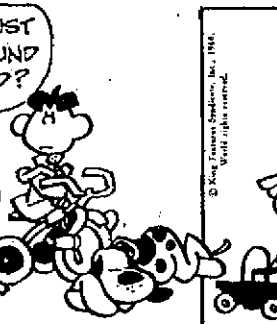

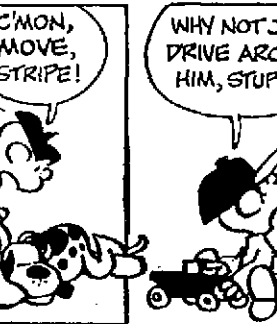

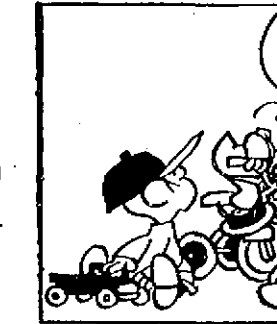

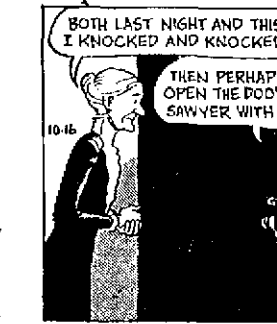

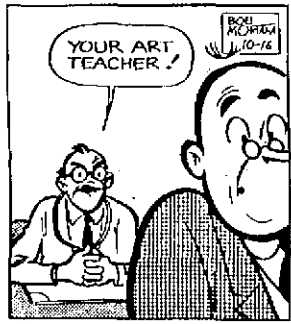

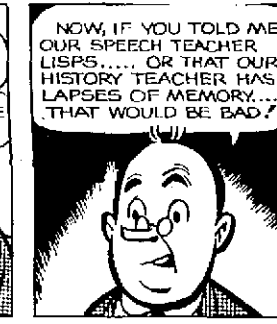

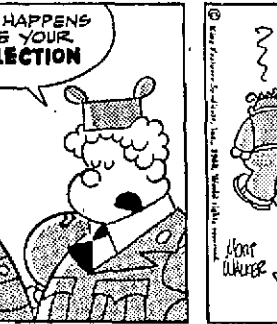

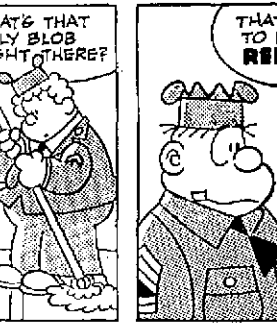

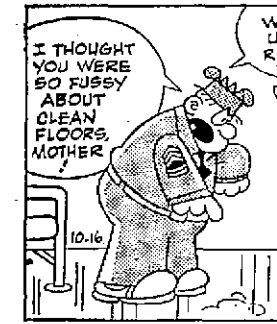

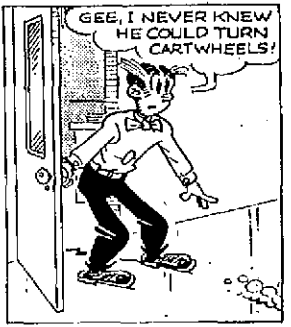

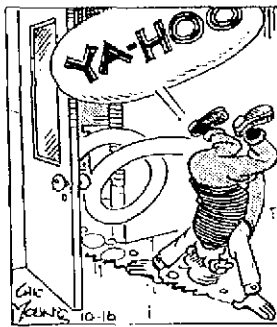

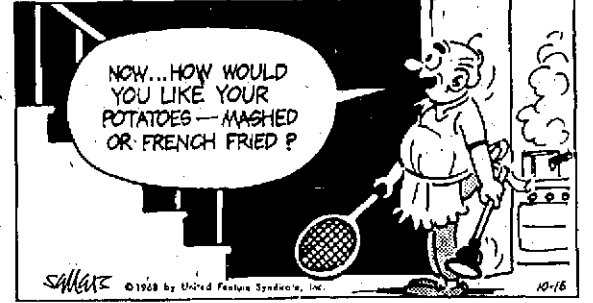

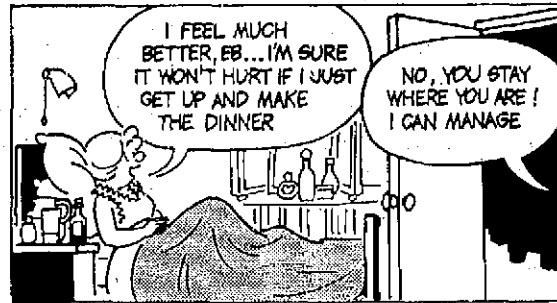

Declarer won the diamond lead with the ace, entered dummy with a heart to the king, and discarded his spade loser on the king of diamonds. He then led a club from dummy.

East went up with the king and returned the queen of hearts. Declarer won with the ace, ruffed a club in dummy and discarded a club on the queen of diamonds, but still had to lose two clubs and a trump for down one.

It is plain to see that in his anxiety to escape a spade loser, South erred by leading a trump to the king. He was blind to the effect this play would have on the hand as a whole. He saved the spade loser, all right, but it cost him the contract.

Declarer should have recognized that the K-Q of diamonds could serve just as well later on for club discards, and that avoiding a spade loser was not really the crux of the matter. His trump lead to the king opened the avenue for a second trump lead by East that proved fatal.

When the British North-South pair played four hearts against the same opening lead, declarer did not suffer from this illusion. He led a low club at trick two and could not be prevented from ruffing two clubs in dummy and discarding two more on the K-Q of diamonds. The only tricks he lost were a spade, a heart, and a club.

New York's Voice of Broadway

NEW YORK — Sammy Davis Jr. and Sinatra are clannish again. . . Gisele Mackenzie and actor Neal Thorpe are auditioning wedding chapels; Neal keeps popping up in whatever theatrical cast Gisele stars in. . . Ex-Ziegfeld Girl Irene Hayes could use some get-well cards and prayers; she's at St. Vincent's Hospital after surgery. . . Also ex-Ziegfeldite Evelyn Hardy has been moved to the Dewitt Nursing Home.

The Tommy Steeles expect a March heir. . . Thrift House has an English Chippendale Dining Room — selling at (some thrift!) $850. . . Thirty N. Y. restaurateurs held a secret meeting to combat what they believe will be severe municipal restrictions on sidewalk cafes early in '69. . . Shirley MacLain's new apartment is abate all the swells on stylish Deekman Pl.

Svelte Gianna d'Angelo of The Mel is sponsoring a Connecticut singing competition — and no matter how fine a voice she has, the winning scholarship must not go to any "overweight" singer.

For years wine merchants have been trying vainly to splash their wares into Chinese restaurants. . . Bill Chan of the fine "Gold Coin" restaurants assured the wine men he'd be glad to use wine — but only if it met his specifications: so they took Bill's rules and after extended experiments turned out a light, dry white wine labeled "Wan Fu," and Bill has the exclusive use for one year. . . Egad! It might mean the end of Chinese tea in U. S. chow meineries!

Universal Pix optioned the first play by former Times movie critic Bosley Crowther's son John. . . Martha and the Vandellas aren't exactly at the vendetta stage, just girlish uproar. . . Would you believe ex-Mousketeer Annette Funicello has a large enough statistic to join the topheavy march through Wall Street afternoons? She's a 40.

Goldie's New York looked even New Yorkier than usual with Ethel Merman tossing a supper party for Madeline Gaxton, widow of The Merm's long-ago Bdw. co-star Billy Gaxton; at adjoining tables, Art Carney with his perky wife Barbara, the Russell (You're Not Sick) Nyses, George Griz-zard of the new Noel Coward revue and Joel Grey of George M. Cohan's coattails. . . And Goldson Hawkins, of course. That's owner Goldie.

La Merman's son Bob Six and bride Barbara bought an apartment at the Dakota, where all good show people bed down eventually. . . The Lee Strasbergs (of the Method acting set) expecting? . . . All-time tallest tab for films peddled to TV: 20th-Fox' "Cleopatra" and "The Longest Day." $9,000,000. . . Each to be flicked twice.

Barbra Streisand saw a "Lion in Winter" preview and wants director Tony Harvey for a film. . . Town & Country magazine editor Tony Massola has been knighted by the Italian gov't, corroborating our old conviction that Tony is among the Roman nobles; fact is, last two times we've seen Tony was in Rome.

Leslie Caron is simply beatty over London producer Michael Laughlin. . . Sonny Fox, one of TV's finer citizens, joined Ed Sullivan's television factory to develop a pintsize variety; they'll commission top tunesmiths to create original young-people properties. Will the fact HHH and Muskie both are Phi Beta Kappas help or hurt their chances. . . Friend of ours years ago wrote "A vote for Adlai Stevenson is a vote for the English sentence" and lost the anti-smug vote for his hero. . . If you want to see what an honest-to-Prohibition speakeasy looks like, try Frankie & Johnnie's on W. 48th St. — it's the same as the days when they locked out Izzie & Moe. . . And if you remember when I. & M. were the Rowan & Martin of Prohibition agents, you're too old to jog.

Gilbert Becaud opened his one-man song show at the Cort Theatre and his fans went absolutely ape — braves and everything.

Trial drama scheduled

EAST STROUDSBURG — The Senior Class at East Stroudsburg Area High School has begun preparing for its play, "Twelve Angry Jurors."

The mixed cast, under the direction of Robert Morris, will present the play to the public on Friday, November 22.

The production is based on the play entitled "Twelve Angry Men" which has been made into both a movie, starring Henry Fonda, and a Broadway show. Although it is about a murder trial, the trial itself is not covered.

The entire play takes place in the jury room. At first, the jury is convinced of the guilt of the defendant. However, through some emotional scenes, a reasonable doubt about his guilt arises.

Flaming Foliage tour attracts 110 persons

EAST STROUDSBURG — More than 110 persons participated in the second annual Flaming Foliage Conservation Air Tour on Sunday which covered the western area of Monroe County.

Sponsored by the Monroe County Soil and Water Conservation District, the tour started at the Stroudsburg-Pocono Airport in East Stroudsburg, following a route south of Route 209 toward Brodheadsville and Effort, circling north and returning to the airport.

Several conservation projects were outlined by the aerial observation, including strip-crop and contour rotations, terraces, ponds, tree farms, state game lands and other county land marks.

County Commissioner Arlington "Bud" Martin, chairman of the event this year said "We would like to thank all those folks who came out for a ride and also those agencies helping with the tour."

The tour had been scheduled for Saturday. Due to poor weather conditions it was postponed until Sunday.

Another tour is scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 19 for those persons still interested or who could not participate on Sunday. The same rates apply for the flight, starting 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Passport applicants plentiful

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County Prothonotary's office has asked that all persons who wish to apply for passports to do so as early as possible, preferably during the months of November, December and January.

The normal schedule of issuing passports is within three to five days after the submission of the application. However, there are certain periods of the year when this schedule is difficult to meet.

Passport Office, Department of State, Washington, D.C., has been flooded with passport applications every spring according to officials. This volume makes it very difficult to maintain the schedule.

Statistics have shown that the volume of passport applications begins a slow rise in January, with a sharp increase and pressure starting in March, peaking in May and June and slowly subsiding until reaching a low in December.

Local officials have asked that those interested in overseas travel apply for their passports early to avoid being caught in the rush and peripatry being delayed receiving their passports.

Cohen group fills posts

EAST STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County Cohen for Congress Committee elected chairmen and ward captains for the local campaign of Peter H. Cohen, of Stroudsburg independent candidate for the House of Representatives, Congressional District 15.

During the meeting held Monday night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Farmer, East Stroudsburg, John Oliver Nelson, Director of Kirkridge Protestant Retreat and Study Center and Ernest Farmer were elected co-chairmen of the committee.

Ward captains were appointed with local canvassing to begin this week.

Gypsy moth hits county

STROUDSBURG — Monroe County is now completely a quarantined zone to restrict movement of materials capable of spreading gypsy moths into uninfested areas of Pennsylvania or other states.

The State Agriculture Department made the announcement Tuesday which extended quarantine zones in the county and other areas.

The quarantined zones now include the entire counties of Monroe, Pike and Wayne and portions of Berks, Bucks, Carbon, Northampton and Schuylkill counties. Previously the quarantine was in effect in all of Pike and Wayne and only portions of Berks, Bucks, Monroe and Northampton.

Henry F. Nixon, director of the department's Bureau of Plant Industry, said the restricted materials include nursery stock, Christmas trees, timber and timber products with bark attached, stone and quarry products and any other material that may harbor gypsy moth eggs.

Restricted materials must be inspected and certified free of any form of gypsy moth before it can be shipped outside the quarantine zone, Nixon said. Certification is not needed for shipments of these materials within the quarantine zone or to quarantined areas of New York and New Jersey.

Inspectors of the federal or state departments of agriculture will provide inspection and certification service at no cost, Nixon said. They may be contacted through regional offices of the state at 711 West Main St., Lansdale or at Tunkhannock or through the USDA office at Moosic.

The quarantine zone in addition to all of Monroe, Pike and Wayne counties includes:

Carbon county — portion of county south of state highway Route 443, west of the borough of Lehigh and south of U.S. Route 209 east of Lehigh.

Northampton — townships of Upper and Lower Mt. Bethel, Washington, Plainfield, Bushkill, Moore and Williams, and all political subdivisions contained therein and the city of Easton.

Income tax lien filed

STROUDSBURG — A federal tax lien was filed Monday against Joseph J. and Amelia F. Davies of Blakeslee.

The papers filed in Monroe County Courthouse allege non-payment of personal income taxes in the amount of $2,172 for the tax period ending Dec. 31, 1967.

PARC maps plans for fund-raising

SWIFTWATER — Members and officers of the Monroe County Chapter Association for Retarded Children met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Strunk Tuesday night to discuss plans for fund raising efforts during November, National Mental Retardation Month.

James Groner, president, said that fund raising efforts will primarily be for the Chapter's support of the camp and residential care program at Camp Robert F. Moll near Mt. Bethel. "We have a need for $1,000 to support the program to the end of this year," Groner said.

"Tag Days" are being planned for the November weekends. Other fund raising efforts will be formulated. Groner said the funds will strictly be used to support Monroe County children and local services of the Chapter.

The Chapter will actively pursue its objective of selecting the county as the 1970 site for the Pennsylvania Association for Retarded Children. A committee has been formed and a

Pocono gives heat contract

TANNERSVILLE — The Pocono Township Supervisors awarded a heating contract for their new township building to Nelson R. Smith, Tannersville, who bid $5,240 for the project, during a meeting Tuesday night in the home of the secretary, Elmer Munch.

Two other bids were considered, D. Katz and Sons, Inc., Stroudsburg, for $5,686 and Adams Plumbing and Heating, for $7,145.95.

The Supervisors will hold their regular meetings in the new township building in back of the Pocono Township Firehouse off Route 611 starting with the meeting on Nov. 5.

Politician's residence damaged

Rooney post office dedication speaker

Absentee ballot count

BUSHKILL — An apparent electrical fire caused damage Tuesday night to the home of State Rep. and Mrs. Russell Eshback above Bushkill.

Bushkill firemen were called to the home about five miles above Bushkill on Rt. 209 at about 11 p.m. Firemen reported no flames were visible and theorized that smoke must have been caused by an electrical failure.

Bushkill and Dingmans Ferry fire companies were still at the home early this morning. A fireman said the fire apparently started in a vent over a kitchen on the second floor and was confined to a small area.

Firemen said considerable damage was caused by the smoke and water. Firemen were also forced to rip into walls in an effort to pin-point the blaze.

It could not be determined if the Eshbacks were in the home when the fire broke out.

Eshback, the Republican incumbent in the 139th District, is opposing Mount Pocono Attorney Peter O'Brien for re-election.

EAST STROUDSBURG — Congressman Fred B. Rooney will be the speaker Saturday during the dedication of the new post office in East Stroudsburg.

Rooney will present to local postal authorities a new American flag to be flown at the post office. The flag is one that has been flown over the nation's capital.

Other highlights of the dedication program, which starts at 11 a.m., according to Jesse R. S. Flory, dedication committee chairman, will be several musical selections by East Stroudsburg High School Band, remarks from government and postal authorities, and a flag-raising ceremony by members of Co. "C," Pennsylvania National Guard, East Stroudsburg.

The Rev. Harold C. Eaton will offer the invocation and the Rev. Msgr. Thomas J. Cawley will give the benediction.

It is expected, Flory said, that Sen. Joseph Clark and Postal Service Officer Robert J. Brown of Allentown will be on hand for the dedication ceremony.

The honored guest will be Norman Gregory, retired East Stroudsburg postmaster.

Stewart Marsh, postmaster, will welcome the guests and introduce Flory who will act as master of ceremonies.

Marsh noted that when the local post office was first opened in 1885 the receipts ran about $1,000 per year.

Jensen award a memorial

STROUDSBURG — The Robert A. Jensen Citizenship Award was recently presented to Sonia Melnikoff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Melnikoff, Canadensis, for outstanding citizenship qualities demonstrated as a 4-H Club member.

The award was presented at the Monroe County 4-H Recognition Banquet given by the 4-H Development Association.

It was not given by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Jensen and family, but in memory of their son who was killed earlier this year during action in Vietnam War. Jensen was a 4-H member who was "conscious of the responsibilities of citizenship."

The league is heading a fight to prevent New Jersey utility companies from using the glacial lake as part of a pump storage plant for generating electricity.

Area forestry group attends convention

STROUDSBURG — Officials and guests of the Department of Forests and Waters, Stroudsburg, recently attended the National Convention of the Society of American Foresters held in Philadelphia.

Attending were Mr. and Mrs. John H. Bitzer, district forester for the Delaware State Forest and head of the Stroudsburg office.

Paul R. Drury of Reoders, assistant district forester; Mr. and Mrs. Bruce V. Vandegrift, Saylorsburg, managing forester of the local district office; Jonas L. Snyder, planner of the Monroe County Planning Commission, also attended.

Top flight experts in the field of natural resources shared their views and scientific knowledge on a wide range of critical forestry issues during the convention.

Vietnam veterans back for fling

By PETE GRADY
Pocono Record Reporter

GREENTOWN — Joseph (Smokey) Alder, chief of special projects at the Valley Forge General Hospital, Valley Forge, was telling 21 wounded G. I.'s about a boy from New Jersey named Joey who wanted square doorknobs on all the doors at White Beauty View Resort, Greentown because he couldn't turn the regular round doorknobs with his newly acquired hooks.

Joey and several other wounded veterans from Vietnam had spent three days as guests of White Beauty View Resort in November, 1966. Joey had his hands blown off by a landmine in Vietnam.

Adler was back again this year with his boys, 21 of them from Valley Forge General Hospital near Philadelphia. They arrived Monday afternoon for a three-day stay at White Beauty View Resort who have been hosting wounded servicemen from nearby veterans' hospitals for the last three years.

Smokey and the 21 boys had one drink at the White Beauty View Resort and then Smokey told them they had to get back into the bus so he could take them down to their rooms where they could wash up and look nice and pretty for the 30 nurses that were coming up from the Allentown-Bethlehem area.

A big, red-faced G. I. grabbed the front end of a wheel chair while Smokey nursed the back of the wheel chair up the steps of the bus. The man in the wheelchair was Felix Sanchez from Puerto Rico. Some of the boys called him "papa" because he was one of the oldest in the group, a ripe 31-years-old.

Smokey shut the door and the bus started down a rather steep road that led past the White Beauty View Resort Motel units and ended at a row of docks jutting out on the Lake Wallenpaupack.

"Don't forget," Smokey said. "I want you boys to leave the silverware on the table tonight."

"Don't drive into the lake, Smokey, I don't want to get my bandages all wet," said a boy in the rear of the bus.

Smokey and the big red faced boy maneuvered the wheelchair down on to the road and Felix Sanchez had a bit of trouble getting the wheels going over the shale and dirt in the road.

"Sanchez, you better watch out for some of these flagstones on that path they're rough as a cob on your wheels," a boy hobbling up ahead said.

Jim King and Stephen Belville decided to room together. Inside their motel, King began to unravel a bandage that ran from his calf to the bottom of his leg which ended in a dull V instead of a foot.

King had his left foot blown off at Khe-Sanh in February. "I was trying to clear a minefield when I was ambushed. But Charlie (Viet Cong) didn't shoot me. I had to wind up doing this myself by stepping on a mine."

King who's 23-years-old and comes from Connorsville, Indiana went home last Friday and while attending a hometown football game fell through the bleachers and landed on his stump. Shrugging off the mishap with a smile King glanced at a long black thin leather case which contained a pool stick. "I hope they got some pool tables around here," he said.

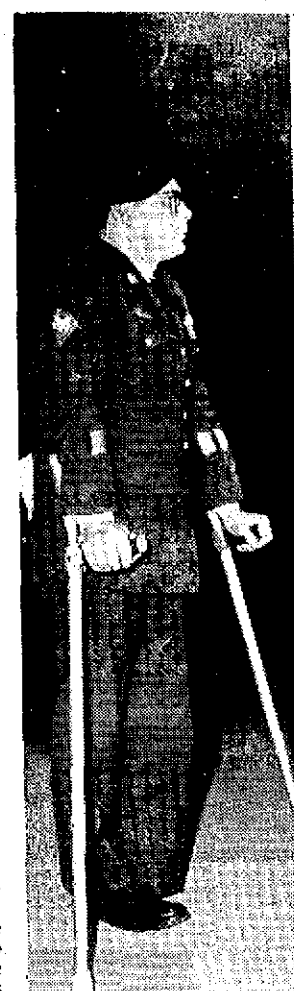

During his high school days King played football, and was on the track and wrestling team. He hopes to be out of the hospital in December.

His roommate, Stephen Belville, 20 of Huntington, West Virginia was up in Quantri Province near the DMZ wedged in a foxhole with three other G. I.'s when three hand grenades wobbled towards them and fell into the foxhole.

Two of the G. I.'s were killed and two were wounded. Belville lost both legs and his left eye. His ear drum is punctured and his face is peppered with shrapnel. He expects to leave Valley Forge General in February and go to work for the Owens Illinois Glass Co. Toledo, Ohio as an IBM Machine Tabulating Operator.

Arthur J. Williams, 21 of Brooklyn, New York was in an Armoured Personnel Carrier near the Cambodian Border on Jan. 2 when a rifle grenade blew up the APC. He lost an arm and was wounded in the other hand, an eye and the stomach. He expects to leave the hospital in December and go to work in the computer field.

Most of the wounds American servicemen receive in Vietnam come from either grenades, mortars or mines. Valley Forge General Hospital has 2,000 beds. There were an average of 1,996 patients between December and May of this year. From May on through the summer the count has dropped to about 1,500 patients.

James King, 23, of Connorsville, Indiana looks into the foyer of the White Beauty View Resort where he and 20 other wounded veterans from Valley Forge General Hospital are spending three days.

Motorist innocent on drunk charge

STROUDSBURG — William J. Palmer, Stroudsburg R.D. 2, Tuesday was found not guilty by a jury in the Monroe County Court of a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Palmer was one of three persons who earlier this month had attempted to enter a plea of guilty on the same charges before Monroe County Judge Arlington W. Williams.

Judge Williams refused to accept the pleas because all three individuals appeared at the arraignment without counsel. Judge Williams said the severity of the possible sentence for such a charge warranted counsel.

Palmer was defended by Attorney James R. Marsh, former Monroe County district attorney. The case of the prosecution on behalf of the Commonwealth was handled by Assistant District Attorney Phillip P. Santucci.

The verdict, accepted by Judge Fred W. Davis, was reached by a jury composed of Frances E. Clark, Hamilton, Shirley Francis, Stroudsburg; William H. Keatter, Stroudsburg; and Jane E. Hermann, Pocono Township.

Everlina Jones, Coatsburg Township; Mary A. McDonald, East Stroudsburg; Donald C. Mader, Paradise Township; and Jay Miller, Middle Smithfield.

Donald L. Paul, Stroud Township; Russell F. Scheller, Chestnut Hill Township; Howard A. Speck, Pocono Township; and Clinton E. Warner, Stroudsburg.

The trial of Ronald C. Cortright, East Stroudsburg R.D. 2, charged with loitering and prowling at night, will enter its second day today.

Cortright is charged with loitering and prowling on the property of Mountain Manor, Inc., Marshalls Creek, during the early morning hours of June 6.

Monroe County District Attorney Phillip H. Williams, trying the case for the prosecution, called five witnesses to the stand in Tuesday's testimony.

Russell Scott Jr. and his wife, were the first witnesses to take the stand. Scott is the president of Mountain Manor, Inc., and he and his wife reside at the manor.

Both witnesses testified as to the activities of the night in question.

They were followed to the stand by Mr. and Mrs. Russell Scott III, who live at the manor. In cross examination by defense attorney Kennard Lewis, it was established that only Russell Scott III could positively identify Cortright as being on the property during the time in question.

The fifth and final witness to testify for the prosecution was Trooper Donald C. Kresge, Pennsylvania State Police, Stroudsburg Barracks.

Following Kresge's testimony, Robert Zellers, deputy county assessor, was called to the stand by Lewis to identify a map which had been entered as an exhibit by both the prosecution and the defense.

The map concerned the property of Mountain Manor and surrounding areas. Zellers attested to the correct positioning of the buildings on the property of the manor and to certain acreage involved.

Cortright followed Zellers to the stand to testify in his own behalf. He stated that he was only on the grounds because he could not sleep and he went looking for fish in Marshalls Creek.

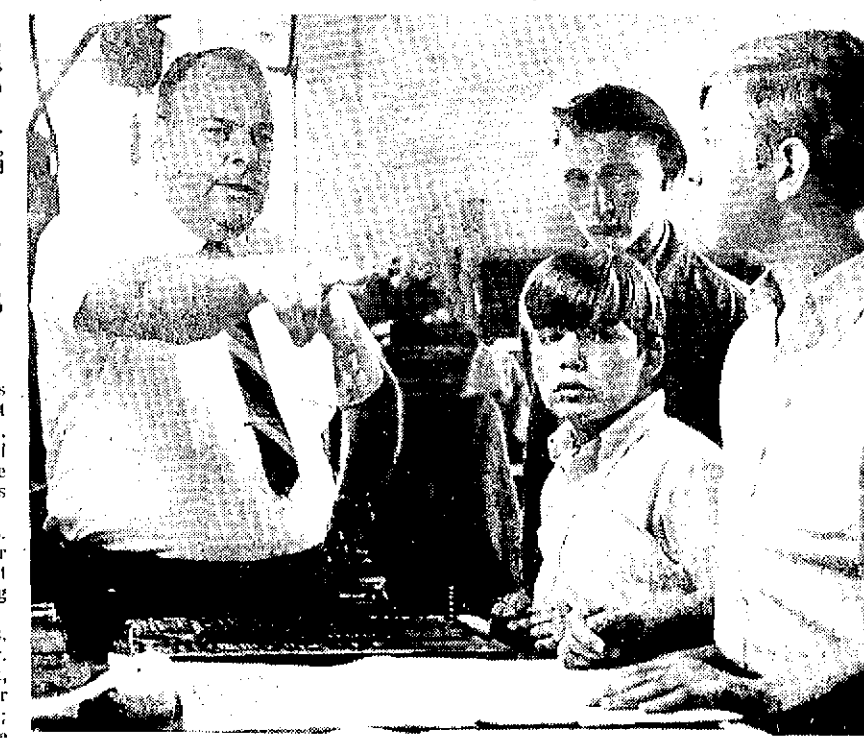

He testified that he had not been on any roof or been around any buildings other than when he walked past them on his way to the creek and back to his car after he left the creek.

Earlier testimony by the Scotts indicated that they had heard footsteps on the roofs of their apartments.

Mrs. Scott Jr. testified that she had seen figure of a man descend a fire escape only four feet from her bedroom window and had seen the figure move away toward other buildings on the grounds.

Presiding Judge Arlington W. Williams adjourned the session following Cortright's testimony.

Summations by the attorneys will take place today and it is expected that the case will go to the jury on Thursday.

Al Oerter first man to capture gold medal in 4 straight Olympics

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Dave Hemery of Great Britain, Ralph Doubell of Australia and Americans Wyomia Tyus and Al Oerter rewrote the track and field record books Tuesday at the 1968 Olympic Games before and during a tropical rainstorm.

Oerter, 32, of West Islip, N.Y., was a stunning surprise as he became the first man in history to win a gold medal in four straight Olympics with a Games record throw of 212-feet, 6½ inches in the discus.

Hemery, a skinny, 24-year-old Englishman who attends Boston University and is the American collegiate champion, shattered the world 400-meter hurdles record with a 48.1 second performance; Doubell, a plucky Aussie, overran Kenya's Wilson Kiprugut to tie the world mark of 1:44.3 in the 800-meter run; and Miss Tyus, of Griffin, Ga., who won a gold medal at Tokyo in 1964, tied the world mark of 11 seconds in winning the women's 100 meter dash.

There were other fine performances on a day plagued by rain, dark clouds most of the time and a steady chill as the United States picked up its third and fourth gold medals, and Great Britain and Australia their first.

America's dominance in track and field, though, was shaken a bit as Yank stars were shut out in the 400-meter hurdles and almost suffered the same fate in the 800 run, little Tommy Farrell of Forest Hills, N.Y., came from back in the pack on the final bend and then hung on gamely to win a bronze medal.

Barbara Ferrell of Los Angeles, although no threat to Miss Tyus, moved strongly in the final 25 meters of the women's 100, which was run in a light rain, to gain the silver medal in the event.

The discus was held up shortly after the start by rain but as far as Oerter was concerned the sun was shining and the day was just perfect as he sailed the platter farther than he ever has before.

The United States was supposed to sweep the event—with world record holder Jay Silvester of Smithfield, Utah, and Gary Carlsen of Rock Island, Ill., also in the competition, but it didn't turn out that way as Lohar Henning of East Germany grabbed the silver medal with a throw of 206-11 2-2 and Ludvik Daneek, the former world record holder from Czechoslovakia, took the bronze with a throw of 206-5.

Sylvester, obviously nervous and simply not throwing as well as he can, wound up a disappointing fifth with a best of 202-8 1-2. He holds the listed world record of 218-4 and a pending mark of 225-4.

Hemery's performance, however, was the most shattering as he took the world mark down from the listed 48.1 held by Rex Cawley and the pending 48.8 turned in by Geoff Vanderstock of Los Angeles at the U.S. trials only a month ago.

Vanderstock finished fourth at 49.0; behind West Germany's Gerhard Henning (49.0) and Great Britain's John Sherwood (49.0), and Ron Whitney of Boulder, Colo., the other Yank in the final, was sixth at 49.2.

Miss Tyus was, perhaps, America's most consistent star thus far in the games. She won every one of her four races in the 100 dash series and her 11 flat in the final marked the second time she had tied the world record in two days. This time there was no tail wind to mar the performances.

While Yank athletes didn't do as well as expected in track and field, the U.S. basketball team kept right on rolling along, posting its third straight victory without a loss, 96-75, over the Philippines. The U.S. hasn't ever lost a game in Olympic basketball competition.

Bill Hosket of Ohio State and Ken Spain used their weight under the baskets to hold off the tall Philippine squad and connected for key points enroute. Hosket finished with 18 points and Spain had 14. Donald Dee, who played only in the second half, added 15.

It rained on and off throughout most of the afternoon—when a bulk of the track competition was held, but thankfully, the big rain didn't come until moments after the completion of the 800—final event of the day. When it hit, though, within minutes the University of Mexico Stadium's all-weather track was buried in water and the more than 50,000 fans who had sat through the program were left with nowhere to go.

The storm increased in violence by the minute. It knocked out lights in the Olympic Village and Press Center. But newsmen worked by candlelight and the flow of copy from the special UPI newsmen was uninterrupted.

John Carlos of New York City, Tommie Smith of Le-moore, Calif., and Larry Questad of Livingston, Mont., all advanced to the finals of the men's 200; the U.S. scored two first and a second in rowing repechages; Mark Murro of Newark, N.J., was the sole American survivor in the men's javelin; Lawrence Anastasi of Swarthmore, Pa., scored three victories in men's foil fencing; and U.S. entries stayed in the running in both modern and women's pentathlon.

Carlos and Smith won both their first and second round heats in the 200 while Questad won his first heat and finished second in the second. All three go on to Wednesday's semifinals with a chance to give the U.S. a badly needed sweep.

None of the times turned in by the trio was outstanding as they ran only for position. The second round, which was on the afternoon program, was held up by rain and it took workmen a half-hour to clear the track of water.

John Van Bloom of Los Alamitos, Calif., won his singles scull heat in 7:43.0; the coxed fours team of Charles Hamblin of Chautauque, N.Y., Peter Raymond of Princeton, N.J., Lawrence Terry of Harvard, Mass., and Raymond Wright of Seattle, Wash., won in 6:39.78 and the Harvard eight was second in 6:19.81.

Holland won the gold medal in 100-kilometer team time trials cycling with Sweden second and Italy third. The U.S. team wound up 20th.

In the first confrontation of the games between the U.S. and Russia outside of the track and field competition, the Yank volleyball team scored a 2-2 victory.

Rudy Suwara of Los Angeles served five consecutive points in the fifth and final game to account for the margin of difference as the defending champion Russian team went down to defeat.

Poland picked up the gold and bronze medals and Iran the silver one in lightweight weightlifting on a day in which Russian athletes were shut out completely.

Wyomia Tyus (105), USA, hits the tape to win the women's final 100-meter dash with Raelene Boyle of Australia right at her heels (33). (UPI Telephoto)

Regulars few and far between as Pilots, Royals draft

BOSTON (UPI)—The Seattle Pilots and Kansas City Royals made a $10.5 million dip into the American League's player market Tuesday and came up with rosters both new clubs think will be the best ever produced by an expansion draft.

Seattle went the "representative" route by grabbing slugger Don Mincher of California, former two-time National League batting champion Tommy Davis of Chicago and such other veterans as pitchers Gary Bell of Boston, Jack Aker of Oakland and Steve Barber of New York. Infielders Ray Oyler of Detroit, Chico Salmon of Cleveland and Rich Rollins of Minnesota and outfielders Tommy Harper of Cleveland and Jim Gosger of Oakland.

The Royals settled for a "youth movement" that began with top choice Roger Nelson, a 24-year-old Baltimore right-hander rated the "best unprotected pitcher" by both new teams.

Kansas City carefully followed with what was immediately named the "Kiddie Korps," a squad that averaged 23 years of age until late in the selections. The Royals then picked 45-year-old Hoyt Wilhelm of Chicago and 33-year-old Moe Drabowsky of Baltimore to make up an aged, but potentially effective, bullpen tandem.

In the meantime, the Royals took Boston third baseman Joe Foy, one of the few regulars apparently available in the draft, and added outfielder Joe Keough of Oakland, pitchers Wally Bunker of Baltimore and Steve Jones of Washington, and infielders Paul Schaaf of California and Jerry Adair of Boston.

When the draft of players, at

Joe Foy

$175,000 each, was completed in under five hours, the Pilots had acquired 16 pitchers along with two catchers, six infielders and six outfielders.

The Royals' 30 choices included 17 pitchers, 12 of them right-handers, two catchers, six infielders and five outfielders.

Davis, taken from the weak-hitting White Sox by Seattle General Manager Marvin Milkes as the Pilots' eighth pick, had the highest batting average among available American League regulars last season when he hit .288.

Seattle also acquired the leading home run hitter on the unprotected list in Mincher who hit 13, though he saw little action over the last few weeks of the season.

Kansas City got the most productive available run producer in Foy, who had 60 RBIs, and the lowest earned run averages with Wilhelm's 1.72 and Drabowsky's 1.92.

The selections ranged down to the .135 batting average compiled by Oyler for the pennant-winning Tigers while pitcher Darrell Brandon, taken by Kansas City late in the draft, had a 6.39 ERA in limited appearances with Boston last season.

Because of their insistence on youth, the majority of the Royals' 30 selections had little, if any, major league time last season, while nearly half of the older players chosen by the Pilots spent part, or all, of the 1968 campaign on AL rosters.

Kansas City General Manager Cedric Tallis insisted that some of the brightest prospects in the league were among his team's selections and cited southpaw pitcher Jim Rooker, the Royals' third choice as an outstanding example. Rooker, 28, had a 14-8 record with Toledo and led the International League in strikeouts with 206 last season before being plucked from the Yankee system.

Catchers were in short supply according to representatives of both new teams. New York's Elie Rodriguez was the Royals' seventh pick and Tallis immediately named him as the receiver who must try to hold Wilhelm's knuckle ball deliveries next season.

Kansas City didn't take another catcher until its 28th choice when the Royals selected Fran Healy, 22, from the Cleveland farm system.

The Pilots made Chicago receiver Gerry McNertney their fourth choice and picked up catcher Larry Ibanez from the Orioles on their 16th selection.

There were several one-time big bonus players drafted, including pitcher Dave Morehead from Boston by Kansas City and Skippy Lockwood from Oakland by Seattle. Lockwood is a former infielder trying a comeback as a pitcher after sacking away $125,000 of Athletics' owner Charley Finley's money in 1964.

Both Tallis and Milkes said they expected the established clubs would try to get back "some of our fine young pitchers in trade."

Can the lack of a winning scholastic football team in Monroe County be attributed to not enough spirit both in the school and community?

At least one area coach, Wayne Boyd of Pocono Mountain, feels that way and from the tone in his voice he's really sincere.

"I don't think there's enough school spirit in any of the county schools. People are not backing their teams and most important I feel a lack of the old fashioned pep rallies may be the key to the whole idea," Boyd told us the other night.

He even went a step further and said "you can't get 11 boys or the entire squad for that matter, keyed up without the backing of the entire school. Three ingredients for winning are the band, pep rallies and the football team."

Boyd feels that the school spirit must start in the school and then spread to the community. He also feels that it's getting to the point that when the team loses, the players are the only ones who feel the defeat.

Boyd would like to see Pocono Mountain, and for that matter every school in the county, be allowed to hold pep rallies before every game. He even went a step further and called for a pep rally during every week of the school year whether it be for football, basketball, wrestling, track or baseball.

But getting back to football Boyd said "Marian didn't beat us, we beat ourselves for the third time this season. We simply are making too many mistakes like missing blocks, tackles, and not running plays as they're designed."

If the Cardinals are to achieve a third straight winning season they won't get it by backing into it.

Pocono Mountain has six games remaining and five are against Lehigh-Northampton League schools. The first is this Friday night against Pen Argyl, a school the Cardinals have never beaten in six years.

Boyd is concerned over the physical condition of halfback Nate Reddicks, who came out of the Marian game with a "bum knee."

L. Jackson quitting

BOISE, Idaho (UPI)—Larry Jackson Tuesday announced his retirement from baseball after 15 years as a major league pitcher.

Jackson told Ray Giffin, sports editor of the Idaho Daily Statesman, in a telephone call he was officially retiring.

Jackson, 36, had a 13-17 record this year for the Philadelphia Phillies. He said he has written letters of retirement to the president of the National League and the commissioner of baseball.

During his years as a major leaguer, Jackson also played at various times for the St. Louis Cardinals and the Chicago Cubs.

Not giving up yet

Phil Bengtson disappointed, but not discouraged

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI)—The obituaries have already been written in some quarters. And, there are those who say one of the great dynasties in the history of pro football has fallen.

Phil Bengtson isn't one of them.

"We're not giving up yet," Bengtson said of his Green Bay Packers, who are off to their poorest start in a decade of National Football League play. The three time champions have won only two of their first five games and are third in the four team Central Division. But their being in the Central Division, where the leaders have each lost twice, helps.

"I'd say we're disappointed—but not discouraged," Bengtson said.

The so-called "experts" see many reasons for the decline of the Green Bay fortunes—main among them the loss of Vince Lombardi as coach and the aging of Packer linemen. In most cases, however, these "reasons" are predictions the "experts" made before the season even started and they're watching those predictions come true—at least so far.

But, it's doubtful that even Lombardi could have overcome the problems—mostly with injuries—that Green Bay has encountered so far. And these aging linemen—especially tackles Forrest Gregg and Bob Skoronski—have shown little signs of a slump.

The key problems have been injuries—first to the defensive line and then to quarterback Bart Starr. But, it's also a fact that the ball that used to bounce in the direction of the Packers now seems to bounce more often in the other direction.

Penalties, for instance, played key roles in a defeat at the hands of Minnesota. And, the Packers of old seldom were penalized. The penalty also played a part in Sunday's 16-14 loss to Los Angeles, with a disputed pass interference call setting up the Rams' game winning field goal with 55 seconds to play.

Injuries to the defensive line have hurt Green Bay all season, but they were most apparent in the loss to Detroit. The Packers had sped to a 19-0 lead. But, tackle Ron Kostelnik and end Lionel Aldridge both left the game limping.

Bengtson's top replacements—Bob Brown and Jim Weatherwax—were both on the injured list and he was forced to go with rookies. When Henry Jordan had some of those recurring back problems, there was no one to replace him. Now, Brown, Kostelnik and Aldridge have returned to action.

But Starr is sidelined with a freak muscle pull in his throwing arm. He got it while warming up before the Rams' game.

"We don't have any idea how long it will take to heal," Bengtson said. He said doctors who examined Starr have never seen that kind of injury, "so we're all pretty much in the dark."

He said that if Starr will be lost for any length of time, rookie Billy Stevens of Texas-El Paso will probably be activated from the taxi squad.

Despite the problems, Green Bay is still only one game out of the Central Division lead—and that game could be made up next Sunday at Detroit.

Should the Packers beat the Lions and Minnesota fall to unbeaten Dallas at Minneapolis, the Central race would be in a three-way deadlock—with all teams having 3-3 records. Bengtson was highly satisfied with his team's play against the Rams—especially on pass protection against the big front four. As far as he was concerned, only the score was wrong.

"We did some things very well, and I think we're playing some real good football now," he said.

Worried about answering a blind box number ad?

(because you don't know who the advertiser is)

If you are worried about answering one of these blind advertisements, please call 421-6822

and we will help you.

Simply do this:

Place your letter of application in an envelope addressed to the blind box number and seal it. Then put the envelope in another envelope addressed to the blind

box number, The Pocono Record, and enclose the money (or dolars) you want to receive your response to the advertiser (or individuals) you listed placed the ad in the paper. We will deliver the money to you.

Sorry, but we cannot return your letter without violating the confidence of our advertisers.

GOODYEAR ICE-BRAKER

CUT SKIDS AND SLIDES TO AN ALL TIME LOW! OVER 200 METAL STUDS PUT BRAKES ON YOUR REAR WHEELS

THE GRIP IS IN THE STUD...

Over 200 of these tungsten carbide studs give unparalleled stop and go in a pair!

Locked into the tread, these studs penetrate solid ice or hard-frozen snow, and act as brakes. Because they bite in for a grip like logger's spikes, they stop, start, and steer as no all-rubber tire ever could.

Sold for use where use is not prohibited by law.
